

British Say Tshombe Ends Struggle for Free Katanga

Urge Him To Accept U.N. Plan

LONDON (AP) — The British government said today President Moise Tshombe has issued a statement indicating he is giving up the fight for an independent Katanga.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Tshombe issued the statement in Elisabethville after being strongly urged by British Consul Derek Dodson to cooperate with the United Nations plan for Congo reconciliation and unification and abandon any thoughts of a scorched earth policy.

Tshombe was reported as saying he had returned to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, to restore calm and peace and declared it was essential to apply the U. N. plan "without new spill."

Thant Skeptical On Statement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U. N. sources said today Katanga President Moise Tshombe could prove his avowed intentions to cooperate with the United Nations by ordering his gendarmes to surrender Kolwezi to the U. N. Congo command.

The informants said Secretary-General U. Thant was reacting with extreme caution to the Katanga president's statement in Elisabethville that he wanted to restore peace and calm in Katanga.

The informants added that the secessionist leader had made contradictory statements in the past and that was the reason for Thant's cautious assessment.

Dodson and the Belgian consul general met with Tshombe shortly after the secessionist leader returned to the Katangan capital Tuesday.

This meeting took place with the knowledge of United Nations authorities, the Foreign Office spokesman said. "The British government is concerned to have the plan of reconciliation accepted and implemented."

"Mr. Dodson told Mr. Tshombe of this continued concern and asked Mr. Tshombe to cooperate in this matter."

Dodson also deplored any last ditch action by the Katangans involving destruction of property or continued fighting.

The reconciliation plan, drawn up by U. N. Secretary-General U. Thant, provides for an end to the secession of Katanga and a formula for sharing the revenue from Katanga's mineral wealth with the Central Congo government.

Tshombe's apparent capitulation came after he hinted that sabotage might still be used to combat unification by force.

With a gesture as if pushing a button, he said he and his ministers had been very busy at his emergency headquarters in Kolwezi "preparing the demolition of all industries."

Dodson told the Katangan president there must be no scorched earth policy or destruction of roads, bridges, power stations or installations of the rich Union Miniere mining company. Union Miniere had reported two dams and power stations in the Kolwezi area were mined and Katangan police occupied its pits and plants there.

Tshombe subsequently issued a pledge of cooperation, which was transmitted to the Foreign Office in London.

"It is evident that in these circumstances I will abstain from any declaration against the United Nations," Tshombe said.

Congress and Legislature Convened in New Sessions

Early Showdown Indicated on Administration Program in Decision on Rules Committee

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 86th Congress opened its doors today for a politically charged showdown on the reception it intends to give President Kennedy's legislative program.

The President called Democratic leaders to a White House breakfast for a last-minute review of his proposals before the formal convening of Congress at noon.

In both Houses, new members will be sworn in as the new session gets under way. All House members begin new two-year terms, and on the other side of Capitol Hill 41 newcomers will take the senatorial oath.

The new House lineup will be 258 Democrats, 176 Republicans and one Democratic vacancy. Democrats will have a 67-33 edge in the Senate. That's a net loss of two Democratic House seats and a net gain of three Senate Democrats who lean toward the liberal side.

Speaker Keeps Post

The House then goes through motion of re-electing Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., as its speaker. Republicans put up their party leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, as a candidate foredoomed to defeat.

With the preliminaries out of the way, the House plunges into a battle Kennedy is favored to win over the size and political complexion of the Rules Committee, which calls the signals for action on major legislation. A decision was expected by midafternoon on whether to fix the membership of the committee at 15.

This would give Kennedy nominal assurance that liberal-leaning representatives could outvote a conservative coalition of Democrats and Republicans and thus get major administration measures before the House.

The alternative would be return to a 12-member lineup with the conservatives in control.

Although Halleck lined up Republican opposition to the 15-member proposal, Democratic leaders

GOP Caucus Chairman Loses Post

Junior Members Stage Coup; Byrnes Keeps Policy Job

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A formidable group of junior Republicans has blitzed its way into GOP party councils in the House.

In a quickly hatched coup they elected 49-year-old Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan chair man of their party conference at Tuesday's initial 1963 GOP huddle and won themselves eight votes in the 36-member party policy committee.

Emphasizing their claim that their action was not a revolt against the old-line leadership, they then joined in unanimously re-electing Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana as their party leader and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin as chairman of the policy committee.

Ford, unseated Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa as conference, chairman by secret ballot of 86 to 78. Hoeven, 67, had held the post since 1957, when he was elected with Halleck's backing.

Hoeven, starting his 21st year in the House, bitterly disputed claims of his opposition that the fight had as its goal only a larger voice in party councils for relatively newer members. Ford has been in the house 10 years.

"I was the victim of a power play," Hoeven angrily told reporters. "And I'm just the first. They'll be going after Mr. Halleck and Mr. Byrnes in due time."

"They just started on me because they thought I was the member of the leadership group they could deal with easiest."

Monaco and France Reach Tax Agreement

Principality Keeps Many Privileges; Loopholes Closed

BY RODNEY ANGOVE

MONTE CARLO (AP) — French and Monacan officials reportedly will agree in Paris Thursday to end the 10-month tax dispute that has rattled the calm of this Riviera haven from taxes.

Informed sources said the agreement will continue much of Monaco's privileged tax situation but will close many loopholes.

French authorities have been trying for 10 months to pressure the 370-acre principality gently into aligning its tax system with that of France.

Tax-Free Refuge

Monacans don't deny the French charge. They just phrase it differently. They say that one of Monaco's most endearing attractions has been its lack of income taxes on corporations and individuals. They proclaim proudly that Monaco doesn't need the money.

With the French seeking to eliminate Monaco's status as a tax-free refuge in a tax-bound world, and Prince Rainier III zealously guarding Monaco's sovereignty, negotiations between the

Draft Quota for March 9,000 Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has set the Army's draft quota for March at 9,000 men — the biggest monthly quota since January 1962.

The higher quota, announced Tuesday, was signaled in November when the Army disclosed it would increase its strength by 20,000 men through larger draft calls for six months. The aim is to build the Army manpower to 900,000.

The quota for January and February is 4,000. In December, 6,000 were drafted.

A year ago, the Army drafted 15,000 in January as part of the buildup during the Berlin crisis.

State Taxes, Redistricting Major Issues

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's 1961 Legislature assembled for the last time today to finish its business and make way for the 1963 session called to order at noon.

The new session will be the second in a row in which the state's problems of taxes and reapportionment have been submitted to a politically-divided government.

Republican majorities control both the Senate and the Assembly and Democrat John W. Reynolds sits in the east wing of the state-house as governor.

The Nov. 6 election put 22 Republicans and 11 Democrats in the State Senate and gave the GOP a 53-47 margin in the Assembly. The Assembly majority was reduced by one with the death of David Blanchard, R-Edgerton. A special election will be held in the spring to fill that vacancy.

Taxes Greatest Problem

As in many past sessions, the overriding issue facing lawmakers and the governor is finding tax dollars to meet a record budget.

Executive budget requests submitted by state departments total $672.3 million, or $162.6 million more than the previous record outlay of $509.6 million for 1961-63.

Reynolds insists that additional money to finance state operations come from tax increases. Republicans favor a general sales tax.

Another bitter battle between lawmakers and Reynolds shapes up over realignment of Wisconsin's congressional and legislative districts.

As attorney general, Reynolds tried in 1962 to force the Republican-dominated Legislature to reapportion by taking the issue to court. He lost suits in the Wisconsin Supreme Court and Federal Court.

Both sides agree reapportionment must be accomplished by the 1963 session, but they disagree on the politically-loaded problem of drawing new district lines.

Building Evacuated Twice; Two Floors Still Closed by Firemen

NEW YORK (AP) — A trouble-shooting fire whipped through a pipe shaft running the height of the 102-story Empire State Building today, shooting flames into offices an eighth of a mile above the ground.

Firemen closed two floors of the building—the world's tallest—as they continued finding and fighting smoldering blazes. No injuries were reported.

The building was twice evacuated, the first time before dawn.

Police Probing Disappearance of Kenosha Man

KENOSHA (AP) — Police are investigating the disappearance of a 46-year-old Kenosha pinball machine operator whose bloodstained automobile and coat were found Tuesday in a North Shore Line parking lot.

The missing man is Anthony Biernat who authorities said operates a pinball machine business in Kenosha County and in Lake County, Illinois.

Biernat's wife said he left home about 7 p.m. Monday, shortly after dinner and gave no indication where he was going. Louis Strumoth, employed by the North Shore as a section hand, found Biernat's automobile the following day in the parking area of the interurban line in downtown Kenosha.

A jacket owned by Biernat was found in his car. It also was stained with blood, police said, and has been sent to the State Crime Laboratory at Madison for a closer examination.

Police said there was no record indicating Biernat had ever come in contact with authorities.

Nelson Leaves Aspirin Bottle for Reynolds

MADISON (AP) — Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds spent his first full day in the executive office Tuesday and when he opened a desk drawer he found a gift from his predecessor, Gaylord Nelson who was in Washington today to be sworn in as a United States senator.

There was a small bottle of aspirin in the drawer. A note stuffed in the bottle said:

"John, some day you will need one of these. Gaylord, Dec. 10, 1962."

"Gaylord always did have a sense of humor," said Reynolds.

Newest Satellite Sends TV Program to Europe and America

NEW YORK (AP) — Relay, the newest U. S. communications satellite, beamed its first full-scale television program simultaneously to Europe and the United States today.

Stations on both continents saw the films of the ceremonies at Washington's National Art Gallery Tuesday night where President Kennedy opened the display of the painting Mona Lisa.

The show, portion of the NBC "Today" show, lasted 10 minutes during the 20th orbit of the satellite.

The signals were sent from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. station at Andover, Maine.

Silent Spell Continues

Failure of Loudspeaker System Mars Debut of Mona Lisa in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mona Lisa is a sight to behold, but her American debut was spoiled by a failure of science.

The loudspeaker system in the marble-halled National Gallery of Art, where President Kennedy introduced her Tuesday night amid hands across the sea felicitations with France, could not cope with the acoustics.

The result was that a gorgeously dressed lady in the front row of VIPs, not 25 feet from Mona, registered a complaint at a crucial moment.

"I cannot," she said, "hear a word."

Embassy of Silence

This was when a linguistic expert was translating remarks in which Andre Malraux, French minister of cultural affairs, was trying to solve the enigma of Mona Lisa's smile.

Anyway, Mona sports her spell silently, not through words, and the public has its chance today to fall under that spell when doors of the National Gallery open to ordinary folk at 10 a.m. In the past four weeks it is expected that perhaps a million people will view the Leonardo da Vinci masterpiece, on loan from the Paris Louvre. The painting will then be taken to New York for a special exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Da Vinci, a man of science as well as an artist, might have been able to do something about the technical defects Tuesday night, but nobody on the scene could.

First failure came when President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived at the gallery after eating dinner at the French ambassador's. The elevator failed to work. Mrs. Kennedy had to hitch up her long pink chiffon dress, a strapless number embroidered with pearls and brilliants, and hike up the broad marble stairs.

So also did Mme. Malraux, looking like a Renaissance picture in a black velvet dress with a rope of pearls looping down to her waist.

For the benefit of the 1,300 distinguished listeners, including members of Congress, who could not hear a word, M. Malraux has a theory that Leonardo tried to improve on pagan antiquity by endowing his painting with "sight, piece, on loan from the Paris Louvre, spirituality."

When it came Kennedy's turn, he realized that he must talk real loud and he did so. He paid tribute to France, "the leading artistic power in the world."

With a bit of a joke about President Charles de Gaulle, who pursues a tenaciously independent course among Western allies, Kennedy said:

"I want to make it clear that we will continue to press ahead with the effort to develop an independent artistic force and power of our own."

As is inevitable in Washington, the affair was picketed. A group of "Young Americans for Freedom" marched to and fro about a block from the gallery—as near as the police, the Secret Service and the Marines would allow them. They explained that they had nothing against Mona Lisa, but thought the Kennedy administration's policy toward Katanga was wrong.

AAL Agents In Meeting At Appleton

Dr. Wolbrecht of Missouri Synod Speaks at Banquet

General agents for the Aid Association for Lutherans from all over the United States and Canada are meeting in Appleton this week. The annual conference opened Monday and closes Thursday.

Main speaker at the Tuesday night banquet and this morning was Dr. Walter F. Wolbrecht, executive director of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Theme of Dr. Wolbrecht's talk was "Where we stand in relationship to the city of man and the city of God."

Gave Warning He warned against letting the world interfere with man's relationship to God and warned:

"We worship a wrong trinity, a trinity of the Devil, the world and our own flesh."

Constructing the city of God with the city of man, Dr. Wolbrecht told the agents they had a duty to serve both God and their fellowman by selling insurance.

"You are insurance agents, but you are also called Christians," he admonished.

"It doesn't matter which synd you are. It depends if you're a Christian witness," he went on.

Dr. Wolbrecht praised the AAL's fraternalism, citing the early Christian roots of the fraternal feeling.

Attending the meeting at Butte des Morts Golf Club, in addition to the 60 general agents, were members of the board of directors, officers and home office personnel.

Gave Talk This morning's program included another talk by Dr. Wolbrecht on "Serving a Growing Church" and a discussion of new Internal Revenue Service regulations on business and entertainment expenses.

The afternoon's program included

New Merger Seen By Church Leader

Missouri Synod Director Sees Union With American Lutherans

BY HAROLD KURTZ

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One of the top men in the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod—sees a merger between the Missouri Synod and the American Lutheran Church.

Dr. Walter F. Wolbrecht, executive director of the Missouri Synod, made the statement Wednesday while in Appleton for a meeting of the Aid Association for Lutherans.

Called "Boss" Dr. Wolbrecht, often called "Boss of the Missouri Synod" is one of the church's main administrative officers.

"A lot depends upon how the new Lutheran cooperative agency turns out," he said.

The Missouri Synod, the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America are planning a cooperative agency to work together in such areas as missions, world relief and similar areas.

Dr. Wolbrecht also predicted a decrease in the strength of the Wisconsin Synod.

"I think Wisconsin is losing its hold on the people. It's starting to lose some of its larger churches to the Missouri Synod," he said.

No Break Seen But, he went on, he saw no breaking off relations with the Wisconsin Synod by the Missouri Synod.

"We will keep extending the hand of fellowship to the Wisconsin Synod. But we aren't going to stand around marking time."

Other views expressed by Dr. Wolbrecht:

Parochial schools: "We have always stood for separation of church and state. Yet we feel the students in our schools are entitled to what educators refer to as 'auxiliary services.'"

World Council of Churches: "Whether Missouri joins or not, depends upon what happens to the new Lutheran cooperative agency."

Vatican Council: "We were not invited to send observers."

Christian unity "Late last year we held theological discussions with the Presbyterians and the Early Showdown Seen On Kennedy Program

remained confident they could get enough votes to put it over.

Kennedy has said the fate of his legislative program could hang on the outcome of this committee. As for the House as a whole, he has said that it is "slightly against us more than it was" in the last Congress.

The bright spot for Kennedy was the Senate. But any going in the Senate would do the administration little good if the House blocked its proposals.

A coalition of liberal Senate Democrats and Republicans has delayed seeking a rules change which would make it easier to stop filibusters against civil rights and other measures. It plans to move after Kennedy delivers his State of the Union message to Congress next Monday.

Since Southern opponents expected to filibuster against this rules move, there was little likelihood of reaching any early decision on a proposal to give a majority of the 100 members the right to end debate. Presently this can be accomplished only by a two-thirds majority of those voting.

In preliminary action, younger House Republicans ousted 67-year-old Rep. Charles Hoenes of Iowa Tuesday and replaced him with 49-year-old Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan as chairman of their party's caucus.

Caucusing Senate Democrats hoped to retain their leadership intact under Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana. However, Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida submitted his resignation as secretary of the party conference. Mansfield and other leaders asked him to reconsider.

Summer Recess Planned

Senate Republicans kept their lineup unchanged in a caucus at which they received a proposal by Mansfield for a midsummer recess of Congress, with the session to be completed in the fall.

The international situation, which Kennedy outlined late Tuesday at a White House conference with leaders of both parties, will get an immediate look from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sen. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will go before the group Friday in a closed session.

On domestic issues, Kennedy faces questions from the coalition partners on top priority programs. Chief among these are efforts to play some topkicks in the revenue law and to give tax reductions to corporations and individuals.

In this case coalition members want to cut his expected $60 billion spending budget deeply to make up in part for the tax reductions.

McCormack voiced hope that another of the President's principal proposals, the financing of health care for the elderly through Social Security, will pass the House. But he didn't say when Senate approval seems likely but even friends of this bill don't think it can be cleared before 1964.

Kennedy reportedly will come up with some changes in federal aid to education recommendations, which got nowhere in the 87th Congress.

Monaco and France Reach Tax Agreement

Two countries broke down in October. Prince Rainier, however, said then that agreement had been reached on basic principles.

Sources here said the agreement to be announced Thursday will continue to spare Monaco's citizens—about 2,000 in a population of 23,000—from paying income taxes. French citizens who have resided in Monaco five years or more will continue to be exempt from French taxes.

Corporation and commercial enterprises will be required to pay the same types of taxes imposed in France but the rates will be lower in Monaco and will take effect over a period of several years.

Throughout the dispute, neither side has resorted to anything stronger than gentle pressure, discreet silence and feigned indifference.

Mail to Monaco has had to carry international postage—double the French internal rate.

A handful of French customs inspectors and bored police have showed up most days at the border for a few hours of customs checks which have been polite, perfunctory and speedy.

Since 85 different streets or roads lead from Monaco to France, anyone in a hurry—or reluctant to explain a truck cargo—can turn around and seek another exit.

Observe Anniversary

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—King Paul and Queen Frederika observed their silver wedding anniversary today, attending a thanksgiving service in the palace chapel. No public celebration was planned.

The tax clouds have not interfered with Monte Carlo's usual pleasures. Hotels were jammed with Christmas and New Year visitors. Princess Grace was busy with the annual Red Cross drive for funds. This week she and the prince flew to London for one of their periodic visits.

Thompson Appoints Armstrong as Aide

MADISON (AP)—Atty. Gen. George Thompson announced Tuesday the appointment of John E. Armstrong, an assistant attorney general, as special assistant in charge of office administration.

The 42-year-old Armstrong, formerly of Mauston, was graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 1948. He joined the attorney general's staff in 1957.

Thompson said Armstrong will be responsible for the assignment and coordination of cases, formal and informal opinions and other duties.

Legion Organized in Latin America to Fight Fidel Castro

Revolutionary Council Hopes to Assemble 80,000 Men for Battle

BY AL BUST

MIAMI — A legion of democratic armed forces to fight Fidel Castro is being organized in Latin America, according to Manuel Antonio Varona.

He said at least 2,000 men already are in training.

Varona is a leader in the Cuban Revolutionary Council here, and a former Prime Minister of Cuba.

"The council hopes to assemble 80,000 Latin Americans who want to fight Castro, and to help train and arm them," Varona said.

"Potentially, this is a great military force, and we are undertaking the task of stimulating it."

"It is unofficial now, but we hope eventually that it will operate within the Organization of American States and the existing inter-American treaties."

Military Units

He emphasized the legion would be made up of volunteers, who would be members of private and autonomous military units within each country.

The units will co-ordinate their efforts when the proper time comes, he said.

"More than 2,000 Colombians are in training now," Varona said.

"They said they wanted to participate in an armed action against Castro, and have filled out recruiting blanks, passed physical examinations and been cleared with the police."

Their movement is called the Colombian Volunteers for the Liberation of Cuba.

"Many of them fought in the Korean war, and others have participated in their own country's fight against bandits and guerrillas."

Varona produced pictures of the Colombian group training, and holding a parade in Bogota. He also showed recruiting blanks, physical examination papers and police forms that he said had been filled out by Colombians.

One U.S. official who deals with Latin problems verified the Latin force. "I know it's there, and I know there are at least several hundred of them," he said. "I was not aware they had 2,000 yet, but it is possible."

Instructors come from the ranks of the volunteers, or from qualified Cubans living in Colombia. Money needed for arms and organizing expenses comes from private individuals or groups, Varona said.

E. Leal, a Cuban representing the Revolutionary Council in Colombia, organized the group there.

"There are about 2,000 or 4,000 Cubans in Colombia. Nearly all of them helped. We formed an executive committee of 15 men, and sent delegates throughout the country," Leal said.

"The Colombian government

Mapping Project Aided By Group Will Cost Wisconsin $7.5 Million

MADISON (AP)—The Legislature will be asked by the Natural Resources Committee of State Agencies to set up a five-year program for topographic mapping of Wisconsin at a cost of $7.5 million.

The committee said in approving the proposed legislation Tuesday that the maps are "essential tools for the efficient and effective identification, management and study of the natural resources of the state." Under the proposal, the cost of the project would be shared by the state and federal governments.

Present topographic mapping is supported by a $150,000 yearly appropriation from the state and a like amount from the federal government, but the committee said that at the current rate it will take 15 years to complete the work.

has no part in this. We are a private group and they leave us alone.

"Because Colombia has many problems of its own with guerrilla bandits, many of our volunteers have asked the government to let them assist in that fight until the time comes to go against Castro."

"But their goal is to liberate Cuba, because they feel that is where their own country's troubles originate."

Exciting Fabrics Enrich Tradition Keyed Furniture Designs at Show

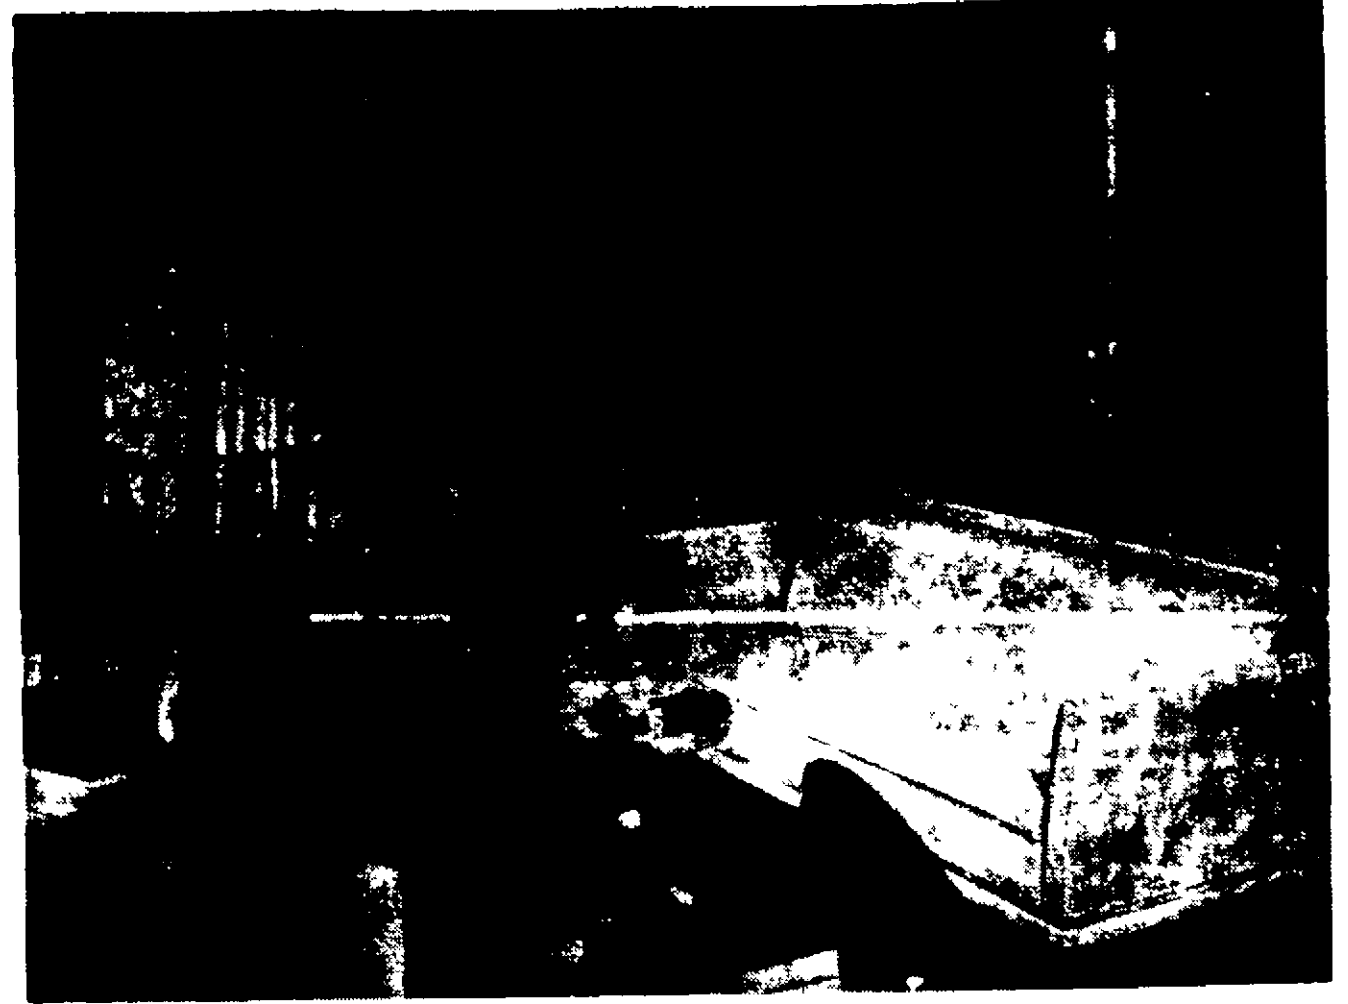

CHICAGO — "An increasing appreciation for traditional styling is emerging from the constantly changing and greatly diversified home furnishings designs exhibited during the past seasons. This trend, coupled with the movement toward greater formality is evident in the new merchandise introduced at the International Home Furnishings Market, Monday through Saturday," said W. O. Offman, general manager of The Merchandise Mart.

"The term good design is no longer confined to 20th century shapes. Period pieces exhibit many examples of lasting design elements and it is encouraging to see these basic 'good designs' reevaluated and adapted to contemporary furnishings," Mr. Offman indicated.

Today, many manufacturers are borrowing directly from museum pieces, reproducing as closely as possible the details and aged finish of the original. Elsewhere, designers modify provincial and formal motifs to make them more practical for our American way of living.

Combine Periods

The handsomely elegant and formal designs introduced at this Market occasionally stray from the confines of authenticity. But it is evident that there is growing interest in the graceful curve of Queen Anne and French provincial as well as the architectural lines of Italian provincial and Chippendale. The romantic details of Spanish - Moorish motifs are not to be overlooked as a factor

The Furnishings Created by several notable designers is combined by Erwin-Lambeth into a fascinating collection called the "Jewelled Look." Introduced at the Home Furnishings Market this week at the Merchandise Mart, the grouping incorporates all facets of color and period of design. The classic sofa, cane pull-up chair and comfortable lounge combine in a highly on the overall picture of home furnishings design. In many instances "drawing room" styles have become more relaxed while the more casual look of early American has taken on added formality. Rough and tumble, casually modern designs have given way to softened individuality. In modern, too, the variations of line, pattern and texture offer greater interest and satisfaction.

Today's consumer demonstrates a growing assurance and knowledge of good design. And manufacturers of all categories of home furnishings are creating the product that reflects good taste to satisfy the demand for quality.

'Basic' New a Rule

Like women's fashions, the lady wants a lady-like look for her home. The "good little basic" of her fashion wardrobe has been established in the home furnishings industry. Classics, introduced in previous years prove to be perennial favorites retaining their popularity season after season. Several major manufacturers merely added accent pieces and boutique-type items to provide fresh and sparkling interest in these staple collections.

Modernists may reject the return to tradition and formality, but a study of modern collections indicates that they borrow, or are inspired by, the natural and mellow effects of old hardware, the patina of pewter and copper or the handsome appearance of weathered wood.

Contemporary is more versatile and increasingly functional. Individual items in a typical modern grouping serve specific purposes. Desks function particularly as writing surfaces. Cabinets and chests have segmented drawers to hold small miscellany while storage areas are designed to accept the multitude of sizes and shapes of contemporary accessories. Fine furniture detailing, even in mass-produced lines, exhibits the telling characteristics of individuality.

More Elegant Design

Casual early American becomes more formal, utilizing elements of Queen Anne, Chippendale and Sheraton for greater elegance. These refinements in design have in several instances led to deliberate reproduction of regal 18th century English creations. This category might well be referred to as American Federal since these same designs appeared in the mansions and town houses of our colonial forebears.

French provincial appears as the strong leader with its feminine appeal. One manufacturer offers a parquet top another shows marble insets, frequently there is a mixture of painted and natural wood finish. All innovations based on this curvaceous style.

Offsetting the curves of French, the architectural feeling of Italian design satisfies the demand for Elegance is underscored in the all-wool Masland Matchmate Wilton traditional design carpet above. Called "Continental," the pattern will match the graciousness of fine period reproductions or mate subtly with the genteel lines of provincial furnishings. Shown at right is part of Drexel's new Italian dining room and bedroom collection designed by Henry and David Warren. The grouping is named "Via Veneto" after Rome's most fashionable boulevard. Fine walnut veneers, finished in a fruitwood shade, are accented by banding on tables and moldings that frame a door or headboard. Hardware is a simple and classic ring pull.

national Home Furnishings Market this week. The famous Ponte Vecchio bridge over the Arno River in Florence, Italy, was reproduced by the American Institute of Interior Designers and will serve as the display center for winners of the 18th annual AID International Design Awards Competition. The "bridge" was unveiled at 11 a.m. Sunday in a special program for the Home Furnishings press. Designer and producer of the display is Marc T. Nielsen, FAID past national president, chairman of the Design Awards Committee and designer and producer of last year's popular "Place in Space" exhibit.

The "Bridge of Good Design" in the Mart lobby is particularly appropriate for various reasons. 1. The reproduction of an Italian tourist attraction is in keeping with the popular Mediterranean influence in home furnishings.

2. The title appropriately illustrates the outstanding array of fine design in home furnishings which have been singled out for honors.

3. The real Ponte Vecchio in Florence has small shops through its entire length in which merchandise is displayed and sold. The Mart AID version uses similar areas on the "bridge" to display the award winners.

The Ponte Vecchio is located along the East wall of the main lobby and is elevated 5 feet above floor level. It is 35 feet long, 14 feet wide and 13 feet high. Underneath the "bridge" flows a stream of water and at the foot of the staircase leading to the "bridge" is an Italian-inspired flowing fountain.

The AID Award winners are exhibited in a series of special Design Dramas created by members of the Illinois Chapter, with Mrs. Lucille Knoche as chairman. In addition many winning designs were utilized in the actual construction of the "bridge." All of the firms whose winning products are displayed on the "bridge" are headquartered in

The Merchandise Mart and buyers are able to purchase the merchandise during the Market. In commenting on the Ponte Vecchio in The Mart, Mr. Nielsen said: "The purpose of the Awards program is to encourage and recognize good design in the entire home furnishings industry. We feel that buyers, manufacturers and other designers should be given the opportunity to see the winners, and most important, the public should have a similar privilege. For this reason," Mr. Nielsen continued, "the exhibit will remain in the lobby for a period following the Market to afford the consumers ample time to see it."

More than 600 entries were received in this year's Design Competition from every section of this country as well as many foreign countries. All of the winners were honored by the industry at the AID's Annual Design Awards Banquet at the Pick-Congress Hotel Sunday evening.

Opening lead — 4 4

We will not be singing songs, mark you, about the opening lead. At both tables of the match West led the four of spades.

The first declarer was after taking the club finesse, and the king of clubs in the West hand all the time. West took the club king and led back a diamond, and now the defenders could be taking a diamond trick whenever South gave them a heart.

Och! Down one, for they did by taking a club, a heart, and a diamond.

Hisself Makes Contract
Now I'm wanting to tell you how it was at the second table, and E. O. Barry playing the South cards Hisself won the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades, and next the broth of a lad led a club to the ace. Divil a bit of a finesse in clubs.

Barry ducked a heart to East's ten, won the diamond return with the ace, led a heart to the ace, and ruffed a heart. Then Barry got to dummy by ruffing a spade and led an established heart to get rid of the losing diamond.

Our broth of a lad lost only one trump trick and one heart. Barry's plan was better than a simple club finesse. First, the club king might drop under the ace. Second, setting up the hearts would almost surely work if East had the king of clubs; so that refusing the club finesse would cost nothing. Third, playing for the hearts would work even if West had the king of clubs if West had the doubleton K-Q of hearts or any three or four hearts.

Questions On Sewing

Q. I have two wool dresses with elastic in their waists. The dresses cup out below the elastic in the back when I wear them. Is it possible to take this elastic out of these dresses and wear them with a belt or dart them?

Mrs. J. H.

A. Usually this can be done. If the dress has a waistline seam the elastic can be removed and darts put in to take in the fullness. If there is no waistline seam you can still do it if the fabric is suitable. In your case the answer is yes. In many fabrics the stitching holes would show after the elastic was removed. You can either shape the dress with darts, or, since this type of dress is cut as a straight shift before the elastic is applied, you can belt it loosely with a string belt.

You can either shape the dress with darts, or, since this type of dress is cut as a straight shift before the elastic is applied, you can belt it loosely with a string belt.

Q. I would like to know how to apply simple appliques with my zigzag sewing machine. Someone told me there are two ways of doing it. The difference is in trimming the edges or something, but I didn't understand her explanation. Can you tell me how this is done? — Mrs. D. B.

A. There are two ways as you can see illustrated here. The first (fig. 1), is to transfer the motif to the fabric applique piece allowing a one-inch margin around the motif. Place your applique on fabric where it is to be applied. Set your machine for a close, satin stitch and stitch all around your motif. Trim the excess fabric close to the stitching. The second way (fig. 2), is to leave a 1/4-inch margin around the motif. Pin to garment and stitch all around the motif using a regular machine stitch. Trim the excess fabric close to this stitching line and then stitching over this stitching line using the satin stitch. Be sure to satin-stitch over the raw edge of the applique.

Q. I have a pattern for a shirt blouse with a yoke and wish to make it with flat fell seams like tailored shirts. My problem is that even though I know how to make this type of seam, I'm at a loss as to which edge of the slim with side vents for walking seam should be cut in making room. Others fall slightly full the seam. My pattern does not from the hip and still others call for a flat fell seam, but I bloom at the hip line.

still want to try it. Can you give me a clue? — Miss T.M.

A. The edge to be cut depends on the direction in which the seam is to be turned. The edge to be left untrimmed is the one that will be turned and top-stitched. So, be sure the side seam in the shirt is turned towards the back, the yoke seam turned toward the front or lower part of the shirt, and the armhole seam turned toward the sleeve.

Furniture Leans to Traditional more masculine provincial. Fluted pedestals appear on tables and shades of Florentine red and green appear on certain pieces. Seldom do these Italian and French provincial designs show complete authenticity, but they exhibit instead subtle adaptations to fit a contemporary home.

Spanish and Moorish elements—the filigree, lattice effects and deeply carved decoration and geometric patterns are evident in floor coverings, fabrics and accessories as well as furniture.

Tradition is also the dominant theme in new fabrics. One of the most exciting stories at the International Home Furnishings Market in The Merchandise Mart will revolve around new fabrics. Furniture design, having reached a plateau of stability, relies on fabrics to establish originality and individuality.

Dance With Fabrics

Rustic homespun give provincial designs a rural look while silks and brocades change the mood to one of more formal refinement.

Documentary patterns are rich and varied. Colors are clear and refreshing versions of the aged and faded museum pieces. Newly revitalized, they are especially appealing to the generation of modernists emerging from the simplicity of tweeds and sturdy basics. Rich velvet, silk, wool and cotton compete with new orlon, fiber glass and nylon in the magnificent range of available fabrics.

Pattern subtly plays against pattern for constant interest. Large prints and diminutive florals correlate with checks, stripes and solids. Abstract modern, too, is part of the colorful selection. Primitive tribes of Africa and the restraint of the ancient Oriental offer inspiration in today's fabric offerings. Individuality can be fully asserted in one collection where looms are ready to weave your choice of 10 patterns in any combination of 37 colors. Mathematically, the possible combinations are almost infinite.

Area rugs function in so many ways. Shaggy Scandinavian inspired styles and modern pattern effects assert their importance on the scene at this market.

Color Excitement

Hard surface floor coverings emphasize the natural look of stone, marble, tile, mosaic and marble chips often flecked with gold.

Color, in all areas of design, is the most wonderful ingredient available for an exciting new look in home decor. Color is more daring, sharper, gayer, or more subdued but always more sophisticated. Shocking shades are pitilessly clear against primitive earthy tones. Clear yellows progress through rich gold to the tawny tones such as the new copper and bronze. This promises to be the most fascinating palette of this market.

Throughout the new introductions, in furniture, fabrics, floor coverings, lamps and decorative accessories, there is a constant repeat of the basic theme: increasing formality, more pattern, more color, more elegance of line and detail. New effects are achieved with texture in both fabrics and wood.

This variety of products introduced at The Merchandise Mart provides an infinite number of ways to fit the growing requirements for individuality in home furnishings decor.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

NO WONDER THEY'RE FAT

Dear Louise I tried an experiment when it was my turn to entertain my bridge club at luncheon by serving a carefully planned menu with no fats and few calories in it as we are all overweight. It was the flop of the year. The "girls" wanted sugar, whipped cream and butter in their food, yet they're always talking about wanting to reduce. I guess my method is the road to social ostracism. Will you comment?

Louise Davis Answers

It is obvious that the "girls" have no intention to reduce or they would take it upon themselves to go on diets. You made a noble experiment and learned that it doesn't pay to spare the butter and the sugar. I think you should have planned a menu to their liking. The women would have been happier, satisfied and less hungry. It's my guess that they reached into the candy box or cookie jar when they returned home. Wanting to reduce is one thing. Doing it is something else. No one can do it for them but themselves.

BROTHER MIS-INFORMED

Dear Louise My 20-year-old brother has suddenly added Jr. to his name and claims it should have been that way from the beginning. His first name is the same as father's. The middle initial is the same, but the names are different. Is he entitled to the Jr.?

Louise Davis Answers

No. To be George William Smith Jr., the three names must be the same.

Embedded Vinyl Tiles

Resilient floor attracts special attention in previews of home furnishings for spring as it takes surprise style directions. Most important is the embedding of natural materials in clear vinyl here illustrated by a flooring which has river bed pebbles and marble chips in the vinyl and by another which encases handsomely woven cane. These floorings do not simply look as if they were made of pebbles and cane — they are made of the actual materials with the entirely transparent vinyl to make them smooth to walk on and easy to care for.

The cane containing flooring and the third pattern sketched won designer Herbert Bright awards in the American Institute of Interior Designers' Design Award Competition announced this week. The third pattern returns the colorful stencilled wood floor of Colonial days and it is a true wood veneer laminated with clear vinyl. Mr. Bright offers treatment of any wood plan stencilled or patterned otherwise in the same manner.

Mrs. R. V.: "Can you offer a suggestion for fitting a linen cabinet into our bathroom? As you see from the floor plan, we have a rather short cabinet with the lavatory in it, but drawers aren't large enough for bath towels and much space is taken by a hamper and bath supplies. We didn't plan this or it would have been different. Is there any type of piece of wood furniture that would hold towels and squeeze onto the 15 inches of wall you'll see as the only possibility for it on the enclosed floor plan?"

As varied in size and shape as today's furniture is, you might never find a cabinet in the right width that has drawers that are convenient. Consult a cabinet maker and plan a cabinet with him to reach the ceiling. It can be a built-in to take out.

Mrs. W. B.: "We are changing to twin beds and prefer a swing headboard. The new arrangement I've worked out fits the rest of the furniture in, but the room isn't so large and a swing size headboard could look too big and heavy. Could it be metal in an open design, or must it be cherry because everything else is?"

You are wise to work out an exact plan for the room measuring all space and furniture accurately before risking the purchase of a swing headboard. This type of headboard is so often an upset to a small room that isn't discovered until it moves in. You're wise too to question how large it will look and open design is a problem solver. It could be metal quite suitably or it might be wood since an increasing number of open designs in wood for headboards are seen in the stores.

Live Within Your Income Have Your Splurge And Enjoy It, Too

BY MARY FEELEY

consultant in money management

Dear Miss Feeley:

For some time, my husband and I have been keeping a "splurge" fund, separate from our regular savings. We both contribute to it—I save a little here and there on household expenses, etc. But then we never agree on how it's to be spent! We've had more hassles over this little amount of money—most months it's about $35 or $30—than over anything else. How do other couples work it out?

Mrs. McC., Princeton, N.J.

Dear Mrs. C:

They face the fact that men and women like to spend money in different ways. They're just geared that way. Why don't you and your husband just split the splurge at the end of the month? Since one of you will contribute more one month the other more the next, just divide it. If he wants a new fishing rod, and you want two on the aisle, then each of you build your individual splurge funds till you get what you want. With this amicable procedure, you may even find yourself agreeing sometimes.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I'm a new girl in a swanky office, and my take-home pay is $30 a week. My rent is $20 a week, food costs about $25 including lunches, and there's not much left. Everybody in the place, especially the other girls, look like the savings bank every day—walking fashion ads, and I feel I have to keep up with the sarroundings. I borrowed a friend's expensive suit when I applied for the job. But now what?

Elsie B., New York City

Dear Elsie:

Now you've got to get smart. One of the best dressed women I know licked the problem with brains and footwork. She read the fashion reports diligently. She'd dye a blouse or a bargain dress some high fashion color, predicted for next season. She'd look for a line or silhouette, when she chose an inexpensive dress, then strip off the ornaments and jewelry. She discovered two bargain priced link bracelets in a hole-in-the-wall antique shop and sewed them onto a length of expensive silk when I applied for the job. But now what?

If you'll hold your food bill to $20, you'll keep your finger and of you build your individual splurge funds till you get what you want. With this amicable procedure, you may even find yourself agreeing sometimes.

coin-op dry cleaners for your non-washables. You can have clean gloves every day, with just one pair of quick-drying washables. But in your campaign to look affluent don't forget it helps to be left. Everybody in the place, especially the other girls, look like the savings bank every day—walking fashion ads, and I feel I have to keep up with the sar-from the office.

Q: We have steel wall tiles on our bathroom walls. Our house is about 10 years old and the tiles on our bathroom walls. Our house is about 10 years old and the tiles are becoming rusted because the enamel is peeling off. How can we overcome this?

A: Remove all peeling paint and all rust by rubbing the tile surface with No. 1 steel wool and turpentine. Then coat the exposed metal with a rust-inhibitive paint. When hard and dry, finish with a good quality enamel, either gloss or semi gloss.

Q: Spaces have developed between several of the floorboards in our bedrooms upstairs. How should these be filled?

A: Open spaces between floorboards should be filled during the heating season when the wood has shrunk considerably and dried out. All dirt and dust should be scraped out. Then fill the spaces the full depth of the opening with wood putty and stain to match. You might want to use a putty stick, available in most hardware and plywood dealers. Wide spaces of a quarter-inch or more can be filled with strips of wood cut to fit. These are glued in place or nailed with wire brads.

The Ailing House Refinish House Door

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: Our new house is painted white, but the door to the garage is varnished. We prefer a more uniform appearance and want to refinish the door to match the rest of the house. Must I remove the varnish first?

A: If the varnish on the door has not developed cracks or peeled, it need not be removed before applying the paint. However, the gloss should be dulled by rubbing with sandpaper or coarse steel wool, or with a "flattening" preparation available at paint and hardware dealers. Be sure to wipe off all dust before applying a good quality house paint. Don't do outdoor painting if the temperature gets below 50 degrees.

Q: The sills have mildewed because of moisture dripping down from the windows in our kitchen. How can I remove the darkened areas or lighten them before refinishing the sills? — Springfield, Ill.

A: Scrape off the present finish down to bare wood. Then apply a prepared wood bleach, following label directions carefully, or apply a liberal quantity of a hot saturated solution of oxalic acid (note this is a poison). Allow this to remain overnight, and then rinse thoroughly with clear water. When the wood is dry, smooth with "000" sandpaper, wipe off the dust, and refinish as desired. Installing a kitchen exhaust fan, vented to the outdoors, will help reduce the condensation on the windows.

To Your Good Health Chest X-Ray Doesn't Contribute to Cancer

BY JOSEPH G. MOELLNER, M.D.

X-ray without good reason. It's a very small amount but it adds up.

Because of the significance applied to birth defects, the important time for protection is in early life—say until 36 years or so.

That covers the child-bearing years for the most part. After then, the added radiation is of less significance.

There has been some change in routine testing. Instead of chest X-rays for everyone, there is now a growing practice of giving a tuberculin, or skin, test to people under 35. If the test is negative, no X-ray is required. If it is positive (showing that the person has been exposed to TB) then an X-ray is taken. If this shows no disease, then an additional X-ray every other year (rather than every year, as in the past) is the result of hours of excessive exposure. At the rate of one ordinary X-ray a year, at a tenth of a second, 36,000 years would be required to accumulate only one hour of exposure—or 600 years for a mere minute.

A chest X-ray requires about one-tenth of a second exposure, and comparable amounts for other diagnostic X-rays.

It's true that in the early days some doctors and scientists were burned by the rays, but that was the result of hours of excessive exposure. At the rate of one ordinary X-ray a year, at a tenth of a second, 36,000 years would be required to accumulate only one hour of exposure—or 600 years for a mere minute.

These figures ought to set your mind at rest.

The more urgent concern these days is over fall-out from nuclear explosions, and what effect this may have on genetics. Will the increased radiation result in more babies being born with defects?

Whether it is fall-out, or natural radiation, or from an X-ray machine, it is still all radiation.

Therefore we want to avoid any radiation, even small amounts, unless there is good reason for it. I would never hesitate for an instant over the split second of radiation needed for an X-ray posture. But neither would I permit any.

County Board Votes to Buy Own Hot Mix Asphalt Plant

Move Comes in Wake of Debate Over Proposed $125,000 Outlay

BY DICK LYNNE

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County plunged into the hot mix asphalt business Tuesday when supervisors voted to purchase a $125,000 mixing plant. The decision may eliminate, once and for all, private contractors from doing hot mix business with the county and acknowledges majority board sentiment in a long-smoldering dispute over whether some phases of highway construction work can be done more cheaply by public or private operation.

The final vote was 36 to 14 with 12 of the 14 "nay" votes coming from Appleton supervisors.

Two private contractors, Francis J. Bloomer of the John F. Bloomer Construction Co., Appleton, and Larry Gage of the Murphy Construction Co., Black Creek, appeared before the board to argue against the purchase. The hot mix asphalt plant, plus an asphalt spreader, will cost approximately $125,000. One-fifth of the amount will be paid in 1963 from the highway department's machinery rental fund. The balance will be borrowed from the county insurance fund to complete payment to the successful bidders when the machine is delivered and accepted.

Four Payments
The amount borrowed from the insurance fund will be repaid in four payments between 1964 and 1967 and a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate.

Supv. Eugene Kloes (Appleton 4th) argued it would be unwise to pay for the equipment out of the machinery rental fund. Quoting the 1962 annual report of the highway department, Kloes said, "In 1961 the county spent $383,216 for the total cost of operations."

Operation of the Outagamie County sheriff and police radio department was transferred to the supervision of the sheriff Tuesday by the county board.

The board voted 37 to 3 for a resolution making the transfer, but not until they heard opposition to the move by Supv. P. J. Heenan, (Appleton 8th), chairman of the traffic police and radio committee.

"This looks like another way of phrasing the same resolution which was defeated on three separate occasions last year," Heenan said. He claimed it was another move toward consolidation of the two departments.

Supv. John Schreiter (Appleton 6th) said, "Mr. Heenan is right, it was defeated three times last year. But the radio department is pulling the wool over our eyes. Last year we gave them a $120 a month raise providing they would increase their work week from 44 to 48 hours. Well, we gave them the raise but they're still working 44 hours."

Need Control
"They need more control," Schreiter said, "and I think our new sheriff (Calvin Spice) is the man who can do it."

"The 44 or 48 hour week business has been kicked around for a long time. The radio department has set up their hours the way they are so that they can get two days off in a row, just but only had $374,806.15 in revenues. They lost $8,000," he stated.

"But that's only the beginning," Kloes said, "in their depreciation figures they list $107,147, but page 80 of the report shows they made purchases of $146,491.44. There's a $39,000 difference there. They have on the $8,000, and there is $47,000 they had to dig up somewhere to buy the equipment."

Kloes distributed a sheet showing equipment operations of 11 counties. "Brown County lost money four out of five years, and Manitowish County has lost money every year for five straight years," he said.

Ask For Bids
"So," Kloes went on, "before the board makes a decision to buy the hot mix plant, the highway committee should go out and find out how much hot mix they need and get bids. We all agree that you need hot mix and good roads, but I think we should do it in the most prudent and inexpensive manner."

"The insurance fund was not set up for investing. The highway committee claims that by paying out of machinery rental the taxpayers aren't paying for the hot mix plant, but if they borrow out of the insurance fund, and can't pay it back, the taxpayers will have to pay."

Supv. Ervin Conradt (Town of DeWitt), a member of the highway committee, said the department's machinery rental and earnings would "personally pay for the machine. I must say that Mr. Kloes is misleading the board and himself. As soon as we have good roads, the rural people are going to come to Appleton. If Appleton wants to keep the rural people out, that's his Kloes."

Replaces Wranosky
He replaces Chuck Wranosky as Outagamie County warden. Wranosky was removed from office.

Governor Appoints Socialist To Post

Selection of Former Mayor of Milwaukee Assures Reynolds a Battle With GOP State Senate

BY JOHN W. WYNGLAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds last night assured a bruising fight with the Republican state Senate when he announced the appointment of the state's leading Socialist exponent as head of an expanded program to encourage Wisconsin economic development.

Reynolds stunned a banquet meeting of select leaders of the Wisconsin business community attending the annual legislative conference of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce by announcing the selection of Frank Zeidler, former Milwaukee Mayor.

or, as the man he believes best qualified for the directorship of the State Department of Resource Development.

The nomination is virtually certain to run into a hornet's nest of protest and resistance in the Republican state Senate when it is presented for confirmation. But Reynolds under the law can keep Zeidler in the $14,000 a year job at his pleasure, without confirmation, as Nelson kept David Carley for nearly three years in defiance of the Senate's desires.

Jury Will Probe Trial Of Hoffa

One Juror Said He Was Offered Money To Vote Acquittal

BY ROBERT S. BOYD
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — A special grand jury will be chosen in Nashville today to investigate charges that Teamster officials tampered with the jury in Jimmy Hoffa's million dollar payoff trial.

Government attorneys next week will present to the grand jury evidence collected by FBI agents during the teamster president's nine week trial.

The trial ended Dec. 23 in a hung jury, with the jurors reportedly split 7-to-5 for acquittal.

Federal Judge William E. Miller ordered the special grand jury on the last day of the trial. He angrily denounced "close labor union associates" of Hoffa for what he called "shameful acts to corrupt our jury system."

The judge said, however, that he had no reason to doubt the honesty or integrity of any of the people who served on the jury.

Before the trial began, one prospective juror told the judge he was offered $10,000 to vote for acquittal.

During the trial, two jurors were replaced by alternates after improper attempts had been made to approach them.

According to FBI investigators, the president of a Nashville teamster local tempted the husband of one of the jurors, a 30-year-old Tennessee state trooper, with promises of promotion.

The teamster took the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination when questioned about the incident.

On the next to the last day of the trial, a Negro juror was excused because of a series of phone calls to Nashville. The FBI said the calls were placed by two business agents of Hoffa's Detroit Local 299 from pay stations in Louisville, Ky.

Evidence concerning these three cases, plus some peculiar phone calls to prospective jurors the first day of the trial, will be given to the 23 grand jurors by the lawyers who handled the Hoffa trial.

If the grand jury finds reasonable grounds to believe that a crime may have been committed, they can issue an indictment.

Stability of Nation's Politics In Danger

Mexican Leftists Exploit Landless in Attempt at Power

BY GERRY ROBINCHAUD
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

MEXICO CITY — A new leftist led movement to exploit the discontent of landless peasants is threatening Mexican political stability, long the envy of most other Latin American nations.

With ex-President Lazaro Cardenas as their patron, a group of pro-Castro, anti-U.S. radicals have created a new farm organization called the Independent Farmers Central (CCI). Its aim is to try to break the government's small farmers and farmhands and thus maneuver itself into political power.

In one of the boldest challenges ever offered a contemporary Mexican regime, the CCI has warned that unless the present land reform program is revised substantially by May Day it will use that occasion to set off nationwide peasant protests.

Praise Cuba

The CCI was born in a burst of oratorical denunciations of Uncle Sam and praise for Communist Cuba and the Soviet Union. Apart from Cardenas, few of the participants in the founding of the CCI are men of national stature.

Some are old-time agitators known for echoing the Communist party line, while others are crackpots.

The aging Cardenas, an admirer of Fidel Castro and winner of the Stalin Peace Prize, holds no official position in the new organization but gave it his blessings as one more means of achieving the agrarian reform goals of the 1910 Mexican revolution.

Despite the Communist and extreme leftist overtones of the CCI, the fact remains that there is considerable unrest among landless peasants and even among some of those who have small holdings under the present reform program.

Mexico's agrarian reform was the first in Latin America and it still remains the best. Nearly 2,000,000 families have been settled on community farm holdings called Ejidos (pronounced eh-hee-doughs with accents on bee) or on large farm co-operatives. But an estimated 500,000 or more families are still landless.

The situation has led to sporadic invasions of large private haciendas and to some bloody clashes with federal troops seeking to protect the rights of the property owners.

Present Regime

The present regime of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos has distributed more land to the landless than any other administration except that of Cardenas. But Lopez Mateos still has not been able to satisfy all the demands of the peasants because there is simply isn't enough arable land to go around.

To break up any sizeable number of the bigger commercial farms that produce much of Mexico's agricultural export earnings would endanger the nation's economy.

Some commercial farms, including cotton plantations, are U.S.-owned and the special target of those who denounce "Yankee economic imperialism." But most big holdings are in Mexican hands.

Lightning Jolts Hawaiian City

HONOLULU (AP) — Bolts of lightning—a rarity in Hawaii—jolted downtown Honolulu Tuesday.

Snowfall in the mountains marooned two men overnight and the heaviest rain in five years drenched the city for the second straight day.

Film Star Gives Birth To 7-Pound Baby Boy

LONDON (AP)—Film star Pier Angeli gave birth to a 7 pound, 14 ounce son by Caesarean section Tuesday night. She was reported recovering satisfactorily today.

The 30-year-old Italian-American brunette and her second husband, Italian band leader Armando Trovajoli, were married in London last February. They live in Rome.

Miss Angeli's previous marriage, to American singer Vic Damone, ended in divorce in 1959. They have a 7-year-old son.

State's New Senator Takes Oath of Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wisconsin's new senator, 46-year-old Gaylord A. Nelson, took his oath of office today with the convening of the 88th Congress.

Nelson, who served two terms as governor, defeated the 24-year veteran Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley, in November.

Here for the swearing in were Mrs. Nelson and their three children, Gaylord Jr., 9, Cynthia Lee, 6, and Jeffrey, 1.

Nelson will be lowest on the seniority list of the 12 new senators taking office, because he served to the end of his term as governor on Jan. 7 rather than resign a week early to begin his term with the other new senators on Jan. 3.

Nelson attended the inauguration of his successor, Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds, in Madison on Monday. He flew here Monday night.

Originally scheduled to take over temporarily the office suite occupied by Wiley, Nelson lost that privilege to Sen. Birch E. Bayh, D-Ind., as a result of being last on the seniority list.

As a result, Nelson was assigned temporarily with his staff to the Senate Finance Committee hearing room in the old Senate office building. His desk is a table in front of the rostrum. However, he soon will be assigned a permanent suite.

Nelson said he wants membership on the Interior Committee because of his interest in the nation's resources, recreation and conservation matters. His second choice, he said, is the Judiciary Committee.

Wisconsin's junior senator declined to discuss his position on the tax program recommended by President Kennedy or other issues that will be coming before the new Congress.

"I want an opportunity to examine all the evidence, pro and con, before deciding such matters," he said.

Sparta Night Spot Suffers Extensive Fire Damage

SPARTA (AP) — Crook's Nite Club, a well-known dining establishment one mile east of Sparta on State Highway 71, was swept by fire early today.

The blaze apparently started in a second floor storage area above the bar, spread to the first floor tavern and also caused extensive damage to the dining room and kitchen of the 20 by 50 feet building.

Mrs. Helen Crook, who operates the establishment with her sons, said the loss probably would exceed $15,000. The club was completely remodeled and modernized six years ago.

The cause of the fire was undetermined. Mrs. Crook had closed the club shortly after midnight and was walking to her trailer home on the premises when a patron, Vern Varley, driving to the club, saw flames shooting from the upper portion of the building. The Ervin Edwards Vol. Fire Fighters of Sparta fought the fire. No one was injured.

Full Report of Probe By Satellite Not Expected for Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Full reports of Mariner 2's close-up look at the planet Venus will not be ready until sometime in February, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Tuesday.

Scientists and technicians, analyzing data from Mariner's Dec. 14 fly-by the planet, had hoped to have the information available this month. Some of the data is taking longer than expected, a spokesman said.

Rumors That Menasha Crews Will Join Teamsters Grow

Union Head Says He Has No Comment

BY GERALD W. ODOM
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Rumors that Local 1066 of the Menasha City Employees Union (AFL-CIO) will join with the Teamsters Union continued to persist today on the eve of a bargaining session between the union and a four-man committee selected from the Menasha City Council.

Union president Earl Kohler said he had no comment when questioned about future plans of the union.

Rumors voiced from usually reliable sources indicated that union members are dissatisfied with the present situation and may attempt to join the Teamsters organization headed by James Hof, now under several indictments in Tennessee and Florida.

Kohler would neither confirm nor deny the rumors.

He said I have been satisfied with what they (AFL-CIO) have done. They are not a radical group.

Kohler would not comment on whether he thought the Teamsters are 'radical'.

He refused to comment on whether he has had contact with Teamster officials.

On the present organization he said the AFL-CIO is a good organization. I would steer them (union members) to remain with that type organization.

Kohler's comments came on the eve of labor negotiations between the union and the City of Menasha. A delegation of three aldermen and the city attorney will meet with union officials tonight to iron out problems that have balked agreements since negotiations began two months ago.

The meeting could prove the final chance for the union to get their requests from council.

Mayor John Klein said he is going to insist that an agreement be reached tonight or there will be no contract.

The union is asking for a 40-hour work week with continuance of the present 42½ hour week pay a three-week vacation period after 10 years of employment an increase in rate of pay for the assistant mechanic and painter meter man and a 20 per cent increase in the amount paid for medical insurance by the city.

Union officials also asked at one time that street crews be given the three per cent pay increase voted by council for all city employees in addition to their four point request. Kohler, however, said he will be satisfied to drop the request for the pay increase allotted to city employees if union members are granted the 42½ pay week on a 40 hour basis.

Union officials and council committee men will meet at 6:30 tonight in an open meeting at city offices in hopes of breaking the impasse which has blocked negotiations for the past month.

Gun Stolen

MENASHA — Mrs. Viola Koerner, 308 Racine St. Menasha, owner of the Menasha Sport Shop, today told police that someone took an automatic 22 caliber pistol from the shop Saturday.

Mrs. Koerner said a man was noticed near the display counter shortly before the $54.95 pistol was missed.

Kaukauna Okays Library Equipment Bid

Appleton Firm Will Install Furniture Built in Oshkosh

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday evening accepted a low bid of $10,607 by Valley School Suppliers, Appleton, for equipping the library of the new high school addition.

The firm will furnish Backstaff Library Furniture manufactured in Oshkosh. The library will have a 110 seating capacity including 94 in the main library area, 12 in the conference room and four in the lounge. Book capacity will be 9,950.

Five bids were received ranging from the low to a high of $14,025. The board then authorized the superintendent to draw plans and specifications for seats for the lecture room. Bids on seats will be let within a few months.

Plans call for 100 seats equipped with a writing leaf on the back. Forty will have the arm leaf. Richard and Joseph Lehrer offered the school board land for a future school site in the Town of Buchanan. No limit was made to the number of acres available. Cost was set at $1,500 per acre.

Approval was given to transfer $2,000 to the athletic fund as set up in the 1963 budget. Ronald Margulafsky, a graduate of White-water State College, was hired to replace Thomas Kissinger as instructor in business administration for the second semester.

Board members approved the 1963-64 school calendar calling for a 187-day school year including 179 teaching days, three teacher convention days, three in-service training days and Labor Day and Thanksgiving. School will start Aug. 27 and close June 5.

Shawano Asks Claims Town Does Nothing On Pollution

State Probe of Sheriff, Police

SHAWANO — Investigation of shenanigans in the Shawano county sheriff and police departments by the state attorney general's office was ordered by the Shawano County Board here Tuesday.

Atty. Gen. George Thompson said Tuesday night, "so far I know nothing about this matter. But when the request comes into this office I will study it and from the information available decide whether it is proper for the attorney general to investigate. If this matter seems to fall within the province of this office, I will either send one of my investigators up there or possibly investigate myself. But until I receive the request and more information, it's not possible to state flatly what this office will do."

Reason for the request seems to be a group of affidavits filed more than a month ago with the attorney general's office by the Shawano County Taxpayers Alliance alleging misconduct on the part of Chief Traffic Officer Edwin W. Bahr. The alliance had threatened to ask the attorney general's office to intervene if the matter could not be settled locally but the county board picked up the ball Tuesday and made the request.

Policeman Adds Youths, Sirens, Gets Confession

An Appleton policeman who heard sirens and saw two youths standing near a fire alarm box about 5 p.m. Tuesday put two and two together and cleared up at least five false alarm calls received by the Appleton Fire Department in January and December.

The youths, after being questioned by police, confessed to setting an alarm at Ullman Street and Wisconsin Avenue Tuesday, three others on Monday night and at least one other false alarm in December.

The youths were taken to the Appleton Fire Department where they were lectured by Fire Chief Roland Kuehn. No other action is planned for the youths, police officials said.

County to Let Older Employees Work for Year

State Month Board Says Action Now Up To District Attorney

OSHTOSH County employees over 70 years old will be allowed to work until at least the end of 1963.

A resolution passed at the December County Board session stating that all employees over 70 had to retire by July 31, and all over 65 by Dec. 31 was altered Tuesday. The board voted to rescind the portion of the resolution pertaining to retirement by July 31 for employees over 70. Thus all employees over 70 can work through the year.

The action taken Tuesday was a stopgap measure, because the Civil Service and Salary Commission and the Executive Committee agreed to make a further study of the matter. The commission's recommendations on retirement ages will be offered to the county board at next October's meeting.

Col. C. Service Clubs to Meet

KAUKAUNA — The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce voted Monday to help organize a general meeting of service clubs to discuss topics of mutual interest.

Clubs will be asked to select dates, times, places and types of programs preferred. The board also will propose a program for consideration.

A letter from the Krwanis requesting to have the club emblem erected on entrance signs to the community was read. Board members approved. The board decided to notify other clubs and urge them to erect organization signs.

The annual meeting was set for April 18. The membership drive will get underway after the meeting. Dues notices for 1963 will be sent out prior to the drive.

New banners and display signs have been ordered and will be furnished members upon payment of dues. Board members voted to increase the salary of the executive secretary $25 per month.

Shiocton to Oppose New Center District

Board of Education Votes to Send Delegate to Madison Hearing

SHIOCTON — The Shiocton school district will oppose the efforts of the Town of Center to set up its own school district. Members of the board of education voted Monday night to send a representative to the hearing in Madison Jan. 15.

The hearing has been called by state superintendent of public instruction Angus Rothwell on a petition filed by the township. At a hearing last fall, the move failed.

The town of Center is presently served by Shiocton, Horshamville, Freedom and Seymour.

Local Students

If the Town of Center were permitted to start its own school district part of the students and taxable property would come from the Shiocton school district. Superintendent of Schools Marvin Obrey warned. Therefore, the representative will be present at the hearing to protect the school districts interests.

Board members awarded a contract to Summers and Kuehn, Shiocton, for the hookup of sewer and water mains at both the high school and elementary school.

The request for the early hookup came from the village board, Obrey said. The purpose was to business. We don't want to be forced to go to Green Bay. Let's think of all of Outagamie County as a unit."

County Will Buy 'Hot Mix' Plant

Supv. Philip Retson argued, "My philosophy is to keep government out of private industry's business as much as possible. Let the people do everything they can. We don't want government to do everything for us. This is nothing but a stop backward."

County Needs It

Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson explained that the county needs hot mix asphalt because the state highway commission says hot mix is far superior to cold mix. He said specifications on federal aid projects give higher specifications requiring hot mix.

"We need hot mix asphalt for maintenance, but to use the plant for maintenance alone would be too expensive. We also need it for road construction, but for construction alone it would be too expensive. "But," Brownson stated, "if you put the two together, we can well afford the hot mix plant."

Brownson agreed that the figures quoted by Kloes were correct, but he said, "We had a profit of $14,895 over and above the book value on trade-ins for new equipment. So our $8,000 loss for that year was really a $6,895 profit."

Kloes argued that the actual cash outlays were a loss. "I don't care if you kept your equipment in good shape, it was still a loss."

"When you receive more in trade-in, you upped your inventory value. You actually wrote out checks for $141,000 to buy equipment," he said.

We'd Get Bids

Brownson said the matter could not be discussed during the budget hearings in November because he knew the state was raising specifications for federal aid jobs and he didn't get the specifications until the end of December.

Supv. Al Fischer (Appleton 15th) asked Brownson if he thought private contractors would make bids to the county for pouring hot mix asphalt.

"I don't think there is any question that we would get bids," Brownson said.

Fischer commented that "once we go into this business, we can't back out."

Retson offered an amendment to send the resolution back to the highway committee for a month's study and to get estimates from private contractors. The amendment lost by a 41 to 10 vote.

Supv. John Dietz (Appleton 13th) said, "This is just another socialistic move. Pretty soon government will have taken all of our freedom away."

Supvs. J. Joseph Cummings (Appleton 3rd) and P. J. Heenan (Appleton 8th) agreed with Dietz. Cummings said, "It is premature to pass this resolution now. I believe in free enterprise and I think private contractors should have a chance to make their proposals."

Heenan said, "I'm not opposed to better roads, but we do have a responsibility to private contractors in our county and we should play the game fair."

Chas Example

Bloomer cited Ozaukee County as an example of a county using its own hot mix plant. "One and a half years ago," he said, "that county started its own program and said it could produce hot mix at $3 a ton, but after a year of operation found out it cost $4.00 a ton. At the same time, private contractors were doing state jobs for under $4 a ton."

"And," he said, "anybody who operates a bituminous hot mix plant will need at least 15 more men. If a county has 15 or 20 men laying around with nothing to do, then they should look into the possibility of starting their own hot mix program."

"This is just another freedom taken away from private enterprise," Bloomer stated, "and yes, I'm prejudiced. You would be too, if government was taking your income away."

Supv. I. A. Gruenwaldt (Black Creek) said the county buys crushed stone and gravel from private contractors in the county.

Gage said the Murphy Construction Co. never had a chance to prepare bids on hot mix bituminous asphalt.

Bloomer said that between five and 12 contractors in the area would submit bids for hot mix for highway construction, and at least two, Courtney and Plummer in Neenah, and Murphy Construction Co. in Black Creek, would submit bids for hot mix for maintenance purposes.

Newspoint Co. (now a division of K-C) in 1965. He is presently chairman of the magazine publishers association of the Printing Paper Manufacturers Association. He is a graduate of Cornell University and the University of Idaho with an M. S. in forestry.

William H. Zuehlke Jr. joined the Aid Association for Lutherans home office staff in 1946 as assistant treasurer, was named investment vice president in 1953 and was promoted to his present position in 1960.

A graduate of Lawrence College, he formerly was associated with Harris, Hall and Co., Chicago. He currently is serving as chairman of the Fraternal Valuation of Securities Committee. He is a director of the Appleton Rotary Club and a member of the American Institute of Management.

Others Re-Elected

Re-elected to the First National Bank's board of directors were Harold C. Adams, William E. Buchanan, Kenneth K. DuVall, Elmer H. Jennings, Richard W. Mahony Sr., Guy E. McCosison, Roy H. Purdy, William E. Schubert, John G. Strange and Dewey Zwicker. Robert W. Ebben, K. E. Stansbury and William H. Zuehlke Sr. were re-elected as advisory directors.

Re-elected as officers were Harold C. Adams, president; R. P. Beelen, W. E. Buchanan and A. O. Seifert, vice presidents; Marvin Heiden, vice president and cashier; Jerome J. Capitaine, Calvin B. Falk, C. Donald Genge and J. E. Wissman, assistant vice presidents; Harry A. Wachter, auditor; and Gilbert A. Beglinger, Leone E. Davis, Al H. Stogbauer and Arnold R. Welch, assistant cashiers. Peter Goertl, former assistant vice president, retired during 1962 after 45 years with the bank.

According to the annual report, the bank's total assets are $82,500,000, an increase of $7,000,000 over last year. Deposits rose to $64,000,000 from $48,700,000. Loans increased $3,500,000 to a total of $30,500,000, with all departments showing an increase and reflecting new highs.

Reviewed Building Plans

The directors reviewed the building program, which has gone through the first phase of demolition of the former Prange annex. Construction of the north half of the new bank is starting, and when this is completed, the front or south half will be razed and rebuilt. Completion of the total building program is expected in 20 months.

The drive-in bank, opened last fall, has been very well received. Adams told the board. The bank also started a women's service department during 1962.

The book value of the bank stock is $25.30 per share, with additional reserves for contingencies of $6.30 per share.

Chief Kuehl said only one piece of standby equipment would be moved from No. 1, but Loos disagreed with him. Loos maintained there was no reason that a pumper could not be stationed at the police station.

Safety Hazard

Kuehl, along with Police Chief Earl Wolff and Traffic Lt. John Goch, said they didn't think there would be enough room at the police station garage, a block from the No. 1 fire station.

At one point in the discussion, Chief Wolff said that an old 1928 pumper truck with two-wheel mechanical brakes, which is used by the fire department, had no place on city streets.

"That piece of equipment is a safety hazard," Wolff told the committee.

been installed over the years. It was recommended that planks be nailed across each side of the split beams. Firemen started that work this morning.

Mitchell made it clear he was opposed to putting any more money "into that old building."

"Let's get the land for a new one and build a fire station before we get someone killed or have a fire truck fall through the floor over there," Mitchell said. Annually, since 1958, Mitchell has prodded the common council to authorize construction of a new fire department building.

Ald. Tews (5th) said he also felt the city should proceed with the acquisition of a site "as fast as we can" and make arrangements to store some of the equipment that would normally be at the No. 1, elsewhere, providing it did not jeopardize the city's fire protection service.

While the board was inspecting the station a fire truck was driven into the building so aldermen and other city officials, who were standing in the basement, could see the posts and pillars move and shake under the weight.

The board made it clear that once it is ready to build a new station, it will sell the site at Washington and Oneida Streets to the highest bidder. It would be prime property because of its one block location from College Avenue.

At Monday night's public safety committee session, Ald. Robert Stumpf (9th) said there was no doubt the city would have to move faster to build a new station. However, the committee felt it would take at least 18 to 24 months to get a building erected.

"Let's face it: we are in a state of emergency with the situation we have on our hands," Loos declared.

He served notice to the committee that he was objecting to the transfer of fire-fighting equipment away from the downtown area.

Chief Kuehl said only one piece of standby equipment would be moved from No. 1, but Loos disagreed with him. Loos maintained there was no reason that a pumper could not be stationed at the police station.

Sheriff Gets Control of Radio Station like the traffic police get," Heenan said.

Heenan also objected that he was not informed of the resolution before it was introduced. He called it "a blow below the belt."

Supv. Eugene Kloes (Appleton 6th) said he thought the resolution was proper, "but I think due to common courtesy, Mr. Heenan should have been informed of the resolution before it was presented."

The resolution, in addition to transferring supervision of radio operations to the sheriff, also transfers administration of the radio operators to the courts and administration of justice committee since the sheriff is under the administration of that committee.

Bloomer said that no one works the same amount of hours. "One committee has never interfered with another committee in this respect," he said.

Schreiter stated, "If it takes a committee to check on hours, it's wrong, but this should have been found out and corrected a long time ago."

Have to Double

Since radio operators have to double as jailers evenings, Spice told the board that the easiest way to solve the problem would be to have enough jailers, so that the radio operators would only have to do their job.

"But," he said, "radio operators have to spend at least 62 percent of their time as jailers and I'm responsible for the security of the jail. I can't do anything because radio operators are under the supervision of Capt. (Ronald) Decker."

"Even when the time comes when we have jailers 24 hours a day, it still would be a good idea to have the radio operators upstairs helping the jailer," he concluded.

bago, Waupaca and Outagamie counties had to split the considerable chore of covering the river particularly in the spring when the pike run is on and through the summer and fall when boat traffic is heavy.

Ken Lippold blasted a 235 game and a 662 series to walk off with individual honors for the men in the Post-Crescent Couples League at Hahn's Lanes in recent action.

Bernice Leisgang pounded a 204 game and 561 series to lead the women legions.

The Pressroom (18-9) is in first place with the Compositors and Monitors tied for second, one game out. The only other honor scores were a 561 series by Dick Brautigam and a 193 singleton by Carol Dietz.

Roger Brandt powered a 236 line and 644 series for individual honors in the Cigarette Couples League at Hahn's.

Leona Rohm Hits 538
Leona Rohm had a 201 game and 538 series to top the women legions. Hit Parade and Raleigh's (17-7) are tied for the league lead.

Other honor scores included Art Brower, 561 and "Dude" Hahn, 575.

Alan Laux had a 229 game and 609 series for the top men's scores in the Fish Couples League while Doris Weiland paced the women with a 209 game and 529 series.

FVL Quintet Triumphs Over Stockbridge watching intently from a seat behind Ummus. He seemed to go through every play as he squirmed in his seat.

His successor, however, proved to have the game well in hand and no type of press was going to prevent Lee Kiepe from getting the ball over the 10-second stripe.

Scores 16 Points
The 5-8 sophomore signalled that he was ready to take his place behind a long list of 3-year veterans at FVL over the past several years. He led the scoring with 16 points on five fielders and a half dozen free throws and saw service as the "chaser" in front of the zone defense.

Barry Wierschke was next in line with 14 points on three field goals and eight free throws but it was his three clutch free throws, along with a pair by Bob Krueger, that clinched the victory in the final minute and a half.

The Foxes let loose with a timely burst in that final one and one-half minute period with Wierschke dropping in two from the line to break a 50-all dead lock. Krueger put in two more with 43 seconds remaining to put FVL ahead, 54-50, but a quick field goal by Gerry Mayer set the crowd to screaming as the score board read, FVL 54, Stockbridge 52.

Once more Wierschke, a 6-foot junior forward, was called upon to apply a clincher and once more he produced. Although he missed the bonus attempt, the successful loss put FVL ahead by a 55-52 count with only 28 seconds to play.

Final Goal
John Koschmann added a final field goal, after taking a length of the floor pass, to account for the final score.

While the Indians were outshot from the floor, 26-3 per cent to 38.1, they were hustling all the way as their total of 73 shots indicates. FVL got only 47 shots but made 18.

The Foxes actually won the game on the free throw line, hitting 21 of 35 with 9 of 12 in the fourth quarter. Stockbridge made 14 of 25 in the contest.

There were times when it appeared Gib Schoon, a very agile frontliner, was making a man bid against the Foxes. Schoon hit nine baskets and six free throws for 24 points for game scoring honors.

Litjens Hits Winning Goal

Lourdes Cagers Nip Weyauwega, 61-59

BY DON CASTANIA Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Lourdes High School survived a near-disastrous third quarter to edge Weyauwega, 61-59, here Tuesday night in a non-league game. The win was the second in 11 starts for the Knights, while the defeat was only the second for the Indians who have won seven.

Lourdes had built up a 13-point halftime lead, 41-29, and then hung on as Weyauwega fought back to within one point, 46-45, at the end of the third quarter.

The Indians did go ahead in the hectic fourth quarter when the lead changed hands six times. A pair of free throws by Ed Mathwig put Weyauwega ahead, 51-50, with 4.2 left to play.

Ron Zuehlke put the Knights back out in front with a basket, but Mathwig came back with two more free throws for another 1-point "Wega" lead. Jack Litjens and Harold Barker traded baskets before Zuehlke made two charity losses and Litjens a basket, and a free throw with 1:41 remaining to give Lourdes a 59-55 edge.

Fights Back
Weyauwega fought back on a basket by Jack Wohl and a pair of free throws by Ron Behm to tie the score with 41 seconds remaining. Litjens then put in the winning score on a corner jump shot nine seconds later. The Indians missed four shots in the final 10 seconds.

Litjens and Zuehlke, a pair of sophomores, scored 13 of the Knights' 15 points in the last quarter. Litjens finished the contest with 15 points and Zuehlke had 12. Mathwig led Weyauwega with 14 markers. He was followed by Barker with 12.

Weyauwega took the lead midway through the first quarter but was tied at the end of the period on a basket by Tim Purtell. The contest remained tight through the first half of the second quarter when Lourdes scored nine straight points to take a 39-27 lead with little more than a minute left in the half.

The Indians were unable to capitalize on their height advantage over Lourdes. Weyauwega had a 47-25 edge in rebounds, but on several occasions missed five and six consecutive rebound shots. The Knights made 11 of 17 free throw attempts — only the second time this year they have hit better than 50 per cent from the charity stripe.

In the preliminary contest, the Lourdes jayvees downed Weyauwega, 66-50.

Baltimore on waivers and played one year there. He coached at Virginia in 1958, moved on to Kentucky in 1959 and joined the Lions' staff in 1960.

Shula said he would make no decisions on Baltimore coaching personnel until he talks to Ewbank's four assistants — Charles Winner, Don McCafferty, John Sandusky and Herman Ball.

"As for the type of offense, I won't do anything until I study the thing all the way through. I have definite ideas I've thought about, but I have to study the whole picture."

Ewbank's over-all record in nine seasons with the Colts is 56-53-1. In 1960, the year after the two NFL titles, Baltimore slumped to a 6-6 record. It was 8-6 in 1961 and 7-7 last season.

The 1962 defeats included a 57-0 drubbing by the Chicago Bears which was the worst defeat in Baltimore's professional football history.

"I think we're close to a championship team," Rosenbloom said. "Football is a young man's game."

Don Shula

I want a young coach, and I think Shula is the most talented of the younger coaches in the league."

the last three minutes in the face of a 9-point Ledger scoring spree.

Sparkplug of the Pennings attack is Jim Van Rite, second high scorer in the conference. "Kip" Whitlinger of Xavier is leading the league with 117 markers in five games. Van Rite is 25 points behind with 93 so far. Helping out Van Rite in scoring for the Squires has been Dennis Denen who climbed into fourth place with 81 points after hitting 26 against Lourdes.

Spring will bring the second best offensive average in the league against Xavier Friday night. The Ledgers, featuring four cagers among the top 15 in scoring, are averaging 63.8 per game to Xavier's 76.

The Springs attack has four players who are all averaging over 10 points in each conference game. The scoring balance runs like this: Pete Burns, 98.4; Bob Fenton, 88.9; Bill Shuff, 11.8 and Rick Martin, 11.4. This quarter has scored all but 70 of the team's total of 266 points so far. St. Mary's holds a win over Promontory to keep its title hopes alive and the Cadets cannot suffer another loss if they intend to remain in the running.

Main weapon for the Squires of late has been a sharp defense which ranks second only to Xavier. The Mennashane have held foes to a little over 52 points per game.

In the St. John-Lourdes clash Friday night, the winner will vacate the league cellar. The teams appear to be evenly matched on paper, with only one point difference in total scoring on offense and a 3-point difference in defensive figures.

Your Money's Worth

Business To For Any Tax

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The "trouble" with the U.S. economic picture today is that it is not bad enough to spur the new Congress into immediate, aggressive action to make it better.

Cynical observation though this may appear, it goes to the heart of the debate over significant across-the-board, top-to-bottom tax reduction which will be dominating the 88th Congress as soon as it finishes the formalities of convening and gets down to lawmaking.

The U.S. economy, as 1962 opens, is in a neither nor stage. Its performance is not good enough to slash our unemployment rate, push our industrial plants into running at full capacity, create the taxes to balance the biggest budget in our history, peace or war. Nor is its performance bad enough to send the jobless rate and business bankruptcies into a sharp upswing and thus spur Congress into taking major steps to bolster activity—regardless of how the steps would swell the budget deficit, the national debt and the cost of carrying the national debt.

In public, no one would dare wish for a business slump in order to ease the way for prosperity-making tax cuts, of course!

Talk is Private
In private, though, leaders in government as well as in business do say rather wistfully that the outlook for fundamental revision of the tax structure would be a lot safer if we were in a clear business downturn and the need for new stimulants was indisputable.

On this day that the 88th Congress convenes, our economy is still moving ahead in a vacillating sort of way. Industrial production has been on a plateau since summer, but it's a very high level plateau. Auto sales are a bright spot.

Business spending on expansion and modernization of plants is rising only slightly, but consumer spending both on things and on non-things is continuing to climb and buoy the economy. Government spending at all levels—federal, state, and local—is in the usual uptrend. It is not a background for imminent recession.

Yet, if this is all our economy is going to do in 1963, we will not create enough jobs to employ the 20,000 youngsters entering the work force each week and the older workers whose jobs are shot out from under them by automation. Nor will American industry be impelled to spend many more billions than it is now spending on making our factories modern enough to compete with brilliant success in the world's markets. Nor will profits and paychecks generate enough taxes to permit us to carry comfortably the immense financial burdens we have assumed as leader of the free world.

Were the federal budget even close to balance and the national debt holding steady, surely Congress wouldn't hesitate to go along with the administration on tax reduction-reform to accelerate our growth. But let's face it—the statistics the administration will submit to Congress this month will be grim.

Budget Goes Up
The new budget will be nudging toward $100 billion, will be below that historic mark only because Kennedy is trying to make the budget as palatable as possible to budget-slashing Congressmen. The estimate of receipts will be billions below expenditures, assuring a multi-billion dollar deficit for the third year in a row.

The national debt will be rising steadily, will be breaking through

Business Too Good For Any Tax Slash

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The "trouble" with the U.S. economic picture today is that it is not bad enough to spur the new Congress into immediate, aggressive action to make it better.

Cynical observation though this may appear, it goes to the heart of the debate over significant across-the-board, top-to-bottom tax reduction which will be dominating the 88th Congress as soon as it finishes the formalities of convening and gets down to lawmaking.

The U.S. economy, as 1963 opens, is in a neither-nor stage. Its performance is not good enough to slash our unemployment rate, push our industrial plants into running at full capacity, create the taxes to balance the biggest budget in our history, peace or war. Nor is its performance bad enough to send the jobless rate and business bankruptcies into a sharp upswing and thus spur Congress into taking major steps to bolster activity—regardless of how the steps would swell the budget deficit, the national debt and the cost of carrying the national debt.

In public, no one would dare wish for a business slump in order to ease the way for prosperity-making tax cuts, of course!

Talk in Private
In private, though, leaders in government as well as in business do say rather wistfully that the outlook for fundamental revision of the tax structure would be a lot safer if we were in a clear business downturn and the need for new stimulants was indisputable.

On this day that the 88th Congress convenes, our economy is still moving ahead in a vacillating sort of way. Industrial production has been on a plateau since summer, but it's a very high level plateau. Auto sales are a bright spot.

Business spending on expansion and modernization of plants is rising only slightly, but consumer spending both on things and non-things is continuing to climb and buoy the economy. Government spending at all levels—federal, state, and local—is in the usual uptrend. It is not a background for imminent recession.

Yet, if this is all our economy is going to do in 1963, we will not create enough jobs to employ the 20,000 youngsters entering the work force each week and the older workers whose jobs are shot out from under them by automation. Nor will American industry be impelled to spend many more billions than it is now spending on making our factories modern enough to compete with brilliant success in the world's markets. Nor will profits and paychecks generate enough taxes to permit us to carry comfortably the immense financial burdens we have assumed as leader of the free world.

Were the federal budget even close to balance and the national debt holding steady, surely Congress wouldn't hesitate to go along with the administration on tax reduction-reform to accelerate our growth. But let's face it—the statistics the administration will submit to Congress this month will be grim.

Budget Goes Up
The new budget will be nudging toward $100 billion, will be below that historic mark only because Kennedy is trying to make the budget as palatable as possible to budget-slashing Congressmen. The estimate of receipts will be billions below expenditures, assuring a multi-billion dollar deficit for the third year in a row.

The national debt will be rising steadily, will be breaking through the heated again by Congress right in the middle of the tax cut debate, for under the bill passed in 1961 the legal debt limit is scheduled to drop from $200 billion to $205 billion on April 1, to $208 billion on June 30 and to the "permanent" limit of $205 billion on July 1. The debt is pushing $205 billion this week.

Whatever squawks there may be in the House or Senate, Congress will have to vote one debt ceiling hike before April 1, another before June 30—for the alternative will be the unthinkable one of a U.S. Treasury defaulting on payment of its obligations.

Finally, interest on the public debt will be rising too, taking more than $10 billion of our income this year—more than 10 cents of every $1 we pay in taxes. That's a huge chunk for debt interest by any yardstick.

Were business clearly in a recession and obviously needing an increase of 500 per cent since help at once, all of these obstacles would fade in importance. But in a neither-nor economy, a bug fight over the tax cuts is a certainty. (Copyright, 1963)

Check Rate Increases

By the end of 1962, Americans will have written 15 billion checks, according to an estimate by the Burroughs Corporation. This is a recession and obviously needing an increase of 500 per cent since help at once, all of these obstacles

Building Hits $1.8 Million At Kimberly

Major Portion of 1962 Total Was for New High School

KIMBERLY — A total of 96 building permits were issued during 1962 representing construction costs of $1,841,975. This compares to 110 permits issued in 1961 when construction costs totaled $1,192,125, said Eugene Hietpas, building inspector.

Major portion of the building costs was for the new high school which is to cost $955,400. A total of 36 homes costing $413,700 were built during the year compared to 24 costing $411,500 last year. A total of 20 garages costing $15,925 were built compared to 27 costing $24,450 in 1961.

List Permits
Remodeling and repairs to homes accounted for 43 permits totaling $47,450 in 1962 compared to 48 permits amounting to $65,175 in 1961.

Four new commercial buildings were constructed at a cost of $358,100 during the year. These included a new post office, a savings and loan building, a new manufacturing building at Kimberly - Clark and a combination home and real estate insurance building.

Three commercial alterations costing $9,900 were made during the year including a new front on a tavern, adding a gas storage tank at a service station and converting a garage for use as a clothing store. One shed was built at a cost of $1,500. Total fees collected on building permits was $891.

There were 166 gas permits issued resulting in $454 in fees collected. No new commercial buildings were erected in 1962, but three alterations resulted in adding $91,000 to building costs. Also included was a $600,000 church in 1961.

Trees Burn

Appleton firemen were called to extinguish several discarded Christmas trees at Drew and Washington streets which started burning about 6:50 p.m. Monday. The trees were lying in the street gutter, firemen said.

Tree Removal Started Near Grignon Home

KAUKAUNA—City park crews have started a winter brush and tree removal project near Grignon Home Park.

Many complaints had been received about heavy brush and scrub trees which prevent utilization of the park to its full extent. The health and recreation committee authorized Victor Luedtke, park superintendent, to begin work this winter.

Large dead trees will be removed, some thinning will be done on trees and shrubs and other nuisance brush will be removed, to eliminate mosquito and insect breeding.

The project is designed to increase the beauty and functional use of the park. Some complaints have been received by aldermen concerning cutting of trees, but Luedtke assures residents, only dead trees are being cut. The project is part of an over-all park improvement program begun last year under the direction of the health and recreation committee.

Optimist Club Hears Talk on 'Inside Russia'

Arthur Staple, Appleton, spoke to the Appleton Optimist Club on "Inside Russia" Tuesday at the Conway Motor Hotel.

It was announced the district meeting will be in Madison Saturday.

Robert Thorn, Neenah High School faculty member, spoke on the individual's responsibility in politics at Tuesday's meeting of the Appleton Rotary Club at the Conway Hotel. Harley Barney was program chairman.

The people of Finland and their customs will be related today to the Appleton Kiwanis Club at the Conway Hotel. Speaker will be Gene Roelofs, Appleton High School senior, who spent last summer in Finland.

On Monday, Wendell Smith, secretary of the Institute of Patent Chemistry, spoke on the history, present work and future of the Institute at the noon meeting of the Appleton Lions Club at the Conway Hotel.

Planner to Meet With Chamber on Avenue Project

City Planner Walter Rasmussen will meet with Appleton Chamber of Commerce officials soon to discuss the proposed reconstruction and development of College Avenue and the central city area. The city plan commission has recommended that Rasmussen confer with the Chamber's Downtown Tomorrow Committee at the latter's request.

In a letter to the Common Council, which was referred to the plan commission, the Downtown Tomorrow Committee said it would like to develop some preliminary proposals that might be considered for development of the College Avenue when the reconstruction work is undertaken.

In other matters, the plan commission withheld approval of a request for rezoning of property at 332 S. Badger Ave. for apartment construction. It also postponed action on a proposal that a 25-foot setback line be required in commercial and light manufacturing districts across the street from residential districts.

British Say Tshombe Ends Struggle for Free Katanga

Urge Him To Accept U.N. Plan

LONDON (AP) — The British government said today President Moise Tshombe has issued a statement indicating he is giving up the fight for an independent Katanga.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Tshombe issued the statement in Elisabethville after being strongly urged by British Consul Derek Dodson to cooperate with the United Nations plan for Congo reconciliation and unification and abandon any thoughts of a scorched earth policy.

Tshombe was reported as saying he had returned to Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, to restore calm and peace and declared it was essential to apply the U.N. plan "without new spill-

Thant Skeptical On Statement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.N. sources said today Katanga President Moise Tshombe could prove his avowed intentions to cooperate with the United Nations by ordering his gendarmes to surrender Kolwezi to the U.N. Congo command.

The informants said Secretary-General U Thant was reacting with extreme caution to the Katanga president's statement in Elisabethville that he wanted to restore peace and calm in Katanga.

The informants added that the secessionist leader had made contradictory statements in the past and that was the reason for Thant's cautious assessment.

ing of blood and without useless destruction."

Dodson and the Belgian consul general met with Tshombe shortly after the secessionist leader returned to the Katangan capital Tuesday.

World End Secession

"This meeting took place with the knowledge of United Nations authorities," the Foreign Office spokesman said. "The British government is concerned to have the plan of reconciliation accepted and implemented."

"Mr. Dodson told Mr. Tshombe of this continued concern and asked Mr. Tshombe to cooperate in this matter."

Dodson also deplored any last ditch action by the Katangans involving destruction of property or continued fighting.

The reconciliation plan, drawn up by U. N. Secretary-General U Thant, provides for an end to the secession of Katanga and a formula for sharing the revenue from Katanga's mineral wealth with the Central Congo government.

Tshombe's apparent capitulation came after he hinted that sabotage might still be used to combat unification by force.

With a gesture as if pushing a button, he said he and his ministers had been very busy at his emergency headquarters in Kolwezi "preparing the demolition of all industries."

Dodson told the Katangan president there must be no scorched earth policy or destruction of roads, bridges, power stations or installations of the rich Union Miniere mining company. Union Miniere had reported two dams and power stations in the Kolwezi area were mined and Katangan police occupied its pits and plants there.

Tshombe subsequently issued a pledge of cooperation, which was transmitted to the Foreign Office in London.

"It is evident that in these circumstances I will abstain from any declaration against the United Nations," Tshombe said.

Congress and Legislature Convened in New Sessions

Early Showdown Indicated on Administration Program in Decision on Rules Committee

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 88th Congress opened its doors today for a politically charged showdown on the reception it intends to give President Kennedy's legislative program.

The President called Democratic leaders to a White House breakfast for a last minute review of his proposals before the formal convening of Congress at noon.

In both Houses, new members will be sworn in as the new session gets under way. All House members begin new two-year terms, and on the other side of Capitol Hill 41 newcomers will take the senatorial oaths.

The new House lineup will be 258 Democrats, 176 Republicans and one Democratic vacancy. Democrats will have a 67-33 edge in the Senate. That's a net loss of two Democratic House seats and a net gain of three Senate Democrats who lean toward the liberal side.

Speaker Keeps Post

The House then goes through motion of re-electing Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., as its speaker. Republicans put up their party leader, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, as a candidate for the post.

With the preliminaries out of the way, the House plunges into a battle Kennedy is favored to win over the size and political complexion of the Rules Committee, which calls the signals for action on major legislation. A decision was expected by midafternoon on whether to fix the membership of the committee at 15.

This would give Kennedy nominal assurance that liberal-leaning representatives could outvote a conservative coalition of Democrats and Republicans and thus get major administration measures before the House.

The alternative would be to return to a 12-member lineup with the conservatives in control.

Although Halleck lined up Republican opposition to the 15-member proposal, Democratic leaders

GOP Caucus Chairman Loses Post

Junior Members Stage Coup; Byrnes Keeps Policy Job

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A formidable group of junior Republicans has blitzed its way into GOP party councils in the House.

In a quickly hatched coup they elected 40-year-old Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan a chair man of their party conference at Tuesday's initial 1963 GOP huddle and won themselves eight votes in the 36-member policy committee.

Emphasizing their claim that their action was not a revolt against the old-line leadership, they then joined in unanimously re-electing Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana as their party floor leader and Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin as chairman of the policy committee.

Ford unseated Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa as conference, or caucus, chairman by secret ballot of 36 to 78. Hoeven, 67, had held the post since 1957, when he was elected with Halleck's backing.

Hoeven, starting his 21st year in the House, bitterly disputed claims of his opposition that the fight had as its goal only a larger voice in party councils for relatively newer members. Ford has been in the house 10 years.

"I was the victim of a power play," Hoeven angrily told reporters. "And I'm just the first. They'll be going after Mr. Halleck and Mr. Byrnes in due time."

"They just started on me because they thought I was the member of the leadership group they could deal with easiest."

Monaco and France Reach Tax Agreement

Principality Keeps Many Privileges; Loopholes Closed

BY RODNEY ANGOVE

MONTE CARLO (AP) — French and Monacan officials reportedly will agree in Paris Thursday to end the 10-month tax dispute that has ruffled the calm of this Riviera haven from taxes.

Informed sources said the agreement will continue much of Monaco's privileged tax situation but will close many loopholes.

French authorities have been trying for 10 months to pressure the 370-acre principality gently into aligning its tax system with that of France.

Tax-Free Refuge

Monacans don't deny the French charge. They just phrase it differently. They say that one of Monaco's most endearing attractions has been its lack of income taxes on corporations and individuals. They proclaim proudly that Monaco doesn't need the money.

With the French seeking to eliminate Monaco's status as a tax-free refuge in a tax-bound world, and Prince Rainier III zealously guarding Monaco's sovereignty, negotiations between the

Draft Quota for March 9,000 Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has set the Army's draft quota for March at 9,000 men — the biggest monthly quota since January 1962.

The higher quota, announced Tuesday, was signaled in November when the Army disclosed it would increase its strength by 20,000 men through larger draft calls for six months. The aim is to build the Army manpower to 900,000.

The quota for January and February is 4,000. In December, 6,000 were drafted.

A year ago, the Army drafted 15,000 in January as part of the buildup during the Berlin crisis.

State Taxes, Redistricting Major Issues

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin's 1961 Legislature assembled for the last time today to finish its business and make way for the 1963 session called to order at noon.

The new session will be the second in a row in which the state's problems of taxes and reapportionment have been submitted to a politically-divided government.

Republican majorities control both the Senate and the Assembly and Democrat John W. Reynolds sits in the east wing of the state-house as governor.

The Nov. 6 election put 22 Republicans and 11 Democrats in the State Senate and gave the GOP a 53-47 margin in the Assembly. The Assembly majority was reduced by one with the death of David Blanchard, R-Edgerton. A special election will be held in the spring to fill that vacancy.

Taxes Greatest Problem

As in many past sessions, the overriding issue facing lawmakers and the governor is finding tax dollars to meet a record budget.

Executive budget requests submitted by state departments total $672.3 million, or $162.6 million more than the previous record outlay of $509.6 million for 1961-63.

Reynolds insists that additional money to finance state operations come from tax increases. Republicans favor a general sales tax. Another bitter battle between lawmakers and Reynolds shapes up over realignment of Wisconsin's congressional and legislative districts.

As attorney general, Reynolds tried in 1962 to force the Republican-dominated Legislature to reapportion by taking the issue to court. He lost suits in the Wisconsin Supreme Court and Federal Court.

Both sides agree reapportionment must be accomplished by the 1963 session, but they disagree on the politically-loaded problem of drawing new district lines.

Empire State Fire Put Under Control

Building Evacuated Twice; Two Floors Still Closed by Firemen

NEW YORK (AP) — A trouble-shooting fire whipped through a pipe shaft running the height of the 102-story Empire State Building today, shooting flames into offices on an eighth of a mile above the ground.

Firemen closed two floors of the building—the world's tallest—as they continued finding and fighting smoldering flames. No injuries were reported.

The building was twice evacuated, the first time before dawn,

Police Probing Disappearance of Kenosha Man

KENOSHA (AP) — Police are investigating the disappearance of a 46-year-old Kenosha pinball machine operator whose bloodstained automobile and coat were found Tuesday in a North Shore Line parking lot.

The missing man is Anthony Biernat, who authorities said operates a pinball machine business in Kenosha County and in Lake County, Illinois.

Biernat's wife said he left home about 7 p.m. Monday, shortly after dinner and gave no indication where he was going. Louis Strmotich, employed by the North Shore as a section hand, found Biernat's automobile the following day in the parking area of the interurban line in downtown Kenosha.

A jacket owned by Biernat was found in his car. It also was stained with blood, police said, and has been sent to the State Crime Laboratory at Madison for a closer examination.

Police said there was no record indicating Biernat had ever come in contact with authorities.

Nelson Leaves Aspirin Bottle for Reynolds

MADISON (AP) — Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds spent his first full day in the executive office Tuesday and when he opened a desk drawer he found a gift from his predecessor, Gaylord Nelson who was in Washington today to be sworn in as a United States senator.

There was a small bottle of aspirin in the drawer. A note stuffed in the bottle said:

"John, some day you will need one of these. Gaylord, Dec. 18, 1962."

"Gaylord always did have a sense of humor," said Reynolds.

Newest Satellite Sends TV Program to Europe and America

NEW YORK (AP) — Relay, the newest U. S. communications satellite, beamed its first full-scale television program simultaneously to Europe and the United States today.

Stations on both continents saw films of the ceremonies at Washington's National Art Gallery Tuesday night where President Kennedy opened the display of the painting Mona Lisa.

The show, portion of the NBC "Today" show, lasted 10 minutes during the 20th orbit of the satellite.

The signals were sent from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. station at Andover, Maine.

Silent Spell Continues

Failure of Loudspeaker System Mars Debut of Mona Lisa in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mona Lisa is a sight to behold, but her American debut was spoiled by a failure of science.

The loudspeaker system in the marble-halled National Gallery of Art, where President Kennedy introduced her Tuesday night amid hands across the sea felicitations with France, could not cope with the acoustics.

The result was that a gorgeously dressed lady in the front row of VIPs, not 25 feet from Mona, registered a complaint at a crucial moment.

"I cannot," she said, "hear a word."

Enigma of Smile

This was when a linguistics expert was translating remarks in which Andre Malraux, French minister of cultural affairs, was trying to solve the enigma of Mona Lisa's smile.

Anyway, Mona exerts her spell silently, not through words, and the public has its chance today to fall under that spell when doors of the National Gallery open to ceremony held at 10 a.m. in the east four weeks it is expected that perhaps a million people will view the Leonardo da Vinci masterpiece, on loan from the Paris Louvre. The painting will then be taken to New York for a special exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Da Vinci, a man of science as well as an artist, might have been able to do something about the technical defects Tuesday night, but nobody on the scene could.

First failure came when President and Mrs. Kennedy arrived at the gallery after eating dinner at the French ambassador's. The elevator failed to work. Mrs. Kennedy had to hitch up her long pink chiffon dress, a strapless number embroidered with pearls and brilliants, and hike up the broad marble stairs.

So also did Mme. Malraux, looking like a Renaissance picture in a black velvet dress with a rope of pearls looping down to her waist.

For the benefit of the 1,500 distinguished visitors, including members of Congress, who could not hear a word, M. Malraux has a theory that Leonardo tried to improve on pagan antiquity by endowing his painting with "sight, soul, spirituality."

When it came Kennedy's turn, he realized that he must talk real loud and he did so. He paid tribute to France. "The leading artistic power in the world."

With a bit of a joke about President Charles de Gaulle, who pursues a tenaciously independent course among Western allies, Kennedy said:

Inevitable Pickets

"I want to make it clear that we will continue to press ahead with the effort to develop an independent artistic force and power of our own."

As is inevitable in Washington, the affair was picketed. A group of "Young Americans for Freedom" marched to and fro about a block from the gallery—as near as the police, the Secret Service and the Marines would allow them. They explained that they had nothing against Mona Lisa, but thought the Kennedy administration's policy toward Katanga was wrong.

New London Chamber Hears Background of Master Plan

Chicago Firm Setting Up Plan; Many Questions Still Unanswered

NEW LONDON — Before New London can compile a master plan, the city must decide what it "has" and what it "needs".

So said Peter Martin at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. Martin is project director for the proposed plan, being compiled by Candeb, Fleissig and Associates, Chicago.

He listed questions that must be answered in order to do this. Is the city taking full advantage of its location? Is commercial development attracting the city's share of the city? Is the city getting its share of the agricultural industry? Is the city taking full advantage of the Wolf River and does the city benefit from the rapid urban growth of the Fox River Valley?

Answers to these and other questions will facilitate analysis of existing conditions and goals needed, he said. Upon completion of the plan, he said the

Assign Game Wardens To Fremont Station and Outagamie County

Realignment Designed to Cope With Heavy Wolf River Pressure

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

A realignment of Eastern Wisconsin's conservation warden force, creating a new station at Fremont and providing Outagamie County with a permanent game warden, was announced today by Vince Skilling, law enforcement supervisor for the conservation department in East Central Wisconsin.

At the same time, the department announced the assignment of a new game manager to be stationed at Oshkosh.

Taking over permanent duties in Outagamie County as a conservation warden will be 25-year-old Albert L. (Al) Vander Bloemen, a native of Manitowoc.

Albert Vander Bloemen

New Fremont Warden
Assigned to the new Fremont station is Lawrence (Larry) McKevitt, 31, a former member of the Wisconsin State Patrol who was born in Black River Falls.

The new game manager is Jerome Rieckhoff, 31, Oshkosh.

Skilling said the creation of a warden station at Fremont is the result of five years of planning and development. "This does not mean we are expanding the force," he explained. "What we are doing is realigning our present staff to provide better service for the public."

Resort Community

McKevitt, the new Fremont warden, actually takes the place of one of two wardens stationed at Oshkosh. The two-man station, he indicated, served its purpose well but the heavy emphasis on outdoor recreation in the Fremont area appears to dictate the need for a permanent station at that Wolf River resort community.

Jerome Rieckhoff

McKevitt, with the state patrol, served in Sheboygan County, prior to that he served with the army for nine years, reaching the rank of captain. Married with five children, McKevitt expects to move to Fremont shortly.

Vander Bloemen is a 1960 graduate of Stevens Point State College. His father is a veteran and widely known conservation warden serving in Manitowoc County.

Vander Bloemen's address will be Box 275, Hortonville.

Replaces Wransky
He replaces Chuck Wransky as Outagamie County warden. Wransky has been transferred to Eagle River. Vander Bloemen is single.

Both McKevitt and Vander Bloemen are new to the warden force, having just completed probationary training at various stations throughout the state.

Rieckhoff comes to his new assignment after completing five years with the department as a game manager. He replaces Harold Steinke, who has been assigned to fulltime work on the department's land acquisition program along the Wolf River.

Rieckhoff, a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he majored in wildlife management, worked mostly with the department's wetland and marsh development program. Prior to his new assignment, he served the department at Ladysmith. He is married and has one daughter.

Growing Importance
Creation of the new warden station at Fremont indicates the department's awareness of the growing importance of the Wolf River as a recreation area. That stretch of the river in and around Fremont has become increasingly popular with boaters, fish-men and other outdoor enthusiasts to the point where control, sometimes, is all but impossible.

Previously, wardens in Winnebago, Waupaca and Outagamie counties had to split the considerable chore of covering the river particularly in the spring when the pike run is on and through the summer and fall when boat traffic is heavy.

Plans for the annual banquet were made. The banquet will be Feb. 2 at Fischer's Riviera Supper Club and will be open to the public. A family style chicken and ham dinner will be served, followed by the showing of colored slides, the presentation of club trophies, and dancing to conclude the evening's entertainment.

At 1 p.m. Saturday, club members are asked to meet at the intersection of Highways 187 and W after which they will inspect the 313 acres of land recently purchased by the club. Also, the boundary lines of the land will be marked with paint on Saturday.

South Pacific To be Given at New London

Student Council Wants More Power

Waupaca High Group Asks Board For Study Hall Monitoring Duties

WAUPACA — A delegation of Student Council members Tuesday night asked the board of education for a broadening of its jurisdiction over matters concerning the student body.

The delegation, consisting of Don Winkler, Dave Volk, Earl Carlson and Judy Mittlestaedt, told the board the Student Council is re-vamping its constitution and would like its duties and functions defined.

They claimed the Student Council is a concrete example of democracy in action. They said the student organization would like to assume some of the duties of teachers, such as monitoring study halls and other rooms to give the teachers more time to prepare classwork.

They said they experimented with monitoring and it apparently was a success. One of the students said there were no disciplinary problems during the testing of the program.

They reported on Student Council conventions and highlighted the importance of giving the students a voice in the policy setting of the school.

Other Activities
Clarence Riddle, high school principal, told the board there are other activities at the school which could be delegated to the Student Council.

Copies of the proposed constitution for establishment of a National Honor Society chapter at the high school were presented to board members.

The honor society constitution is being sent to National Honor Society headquarters for approval. The board of education will be asked to approve a list of eight teachers who, with the principal, will select students for society membership.

The board adopted a resolution establishing the payments on the $690,000 bond issue.

George Hendrickson, superintendent of schools, told the board the school lunch program was started at Lind Center School early this month.

The board scheduled a meeting Friday afternoon with teachers for annual salary request discussions.

Mrs. Steinke is confined there with injuries to her right knee and a cut lower lip. Nancy, also confined at the hospital, has a possible broken collar bone and possible neck injuries. Ricky was treated for head cuts and released from the hospital.

Sgt. Lyle McCully of the Waupaca County traffic patrol, who investigated the accident, reported that the accident occurred as the highway was turned out to pass a truck, and ran into the Tellock car which was going east. Sgt. McCully reported both cars as total losses.

Assisting at the scene of the accident was Clintonville Police Chief James Beggs.

Shiocton to Oppose New Center District
SHIOCTON — The Shiocton school district will oppose the efforts of the Town of Center to set up its own school district. Members of the board of education voted Monday night to send a representative to the hearing in Madison Jan. 15.

The hearing has been called by state superintendent of public instruction Angus Rothwell on a petition filed by the township. At a hearing last fall, the move failed.

The town of Center is presently served by Shiocton, Hortonville, Freedom and Seymour.

Two Teachers To Start Soon
Board of Education In Waupaca Agrees To Issue Contracts

WAUPACA — The board of education Tuesday night authorized the issuance of teacher contracts to two new instructors, who will join the faculty at the start of the second semester.

Contracts were voted for David McKay, Rhineland, who will graduate at the end of the semester from Wisconsin State College, Stevens Point, and Gary B. Douma, Richland Center, who received his degree from Wisconsin State College, Platteville.

McKay will teach chemistry, replacing Ward Fox, who has resigned to accept a position with industry, and Douma will replace David Miller as English instructor at the high school. Miller has resigned to enter an officer's candidate school.

Govt Report
Robert Lee, a high school faculty member presented a report to the board on the awards and honor roll systems of about 25 other schools of the area. It was decided by the board to maintain the present awards and honor roll system for this school year and if it is to be changed the change will be made between a school year.

Because of frozen ground the building of a proposed fence along the north border of the elementary school property will be delayed until spring.

Alderman Part Owner of Land Sought by City

Clarence Barker, Clintonville, Has Third of Former Lumber Property

CLINTONVILLE — The city first discussed at the Dec. 4 council meeting Tuesday night property it was interested in purchasing has been sold. An alderman member of the city committee to investigate the purchase now has one third ownership of the property.

The special committee, named Dec. 12, included the finance committee headed by Ald. Eugene Dexter and the public property committee headed by Ald. Clarence Barker.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz called for a report on possible city purchase of the former O & N Lumber Co. property at the rear of a city hall. No report was given.

It then was reported the building had been sold and is being remodeled into an attorney's office and offices for an insurance agency headed by Ald. Clarence Barker. Barker owns one third of the building. The other shares are held by Atty. Nathan E. Wiese, Clintonville Municipal Justice, and Dwan Johnson, with Barker's firm and a real estate broker.

Called for Report
When Sinkewicz called for a report, Dexter said he had reported at the last council meeting no funds had been placed in the budget for such a purchase.

Barker said that he had no report to make.

"I was considerably disturbed and disappointed last Wednesday when I heard second hand Barker and Wiese (attorney Nathan E. Wiese) had purchased the property," Sinkewicz said.

Purchase of the property was

Join in Purchase
Barker said that after Wiese had purchased the building, Wiese had asked him to come in on buying the building.

"I can't see I've done anything to block the city. All the aldermen knew about this. It's been kicked around for a long time," he said.

Sinkewicz said he doubted anything could be done on the matter now. He said the city attorney had been asked to give an opinion on the legality of the issues involved.

Sinkewicz pointed out aldermen had favored purchase of the property for city use. He also said as far as financing was concerned, any lending institution would have loaned the city $11,000 to purchase the property.

Sinkewicz pointed out the property could be used for recreational facilities for senior citizens, for fire department extension and other uses.

Ald. Ed Wanta said he thinks aldermen have a moral obligation to the city on such matters.

New Bus Plan Approved in Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — Board of education members Monday night approved a shuttle bus plan to transport high school students from the Fremont area to Weyauwega for athletic events.

The plan was presented to the board by superintendent H. James Ramsdell who said by transporting the students the use of cars can be cut down, thereby averting a possible automobile accident involving students. The service will also help boost attendance at the games.

If the shuttle service which was approved on a temporary basis proves successful the service may be expanded to other parts of the district.

Plans for the dedication of the new additions to the high school were also discussed and turned over to superintendent Ramsdell who was instructed to prepare the preliminary plans. The date was not set but Ramsdell said it is hoped that it can be held some time in February.

New London Man Takes Papers for Aldermanic Post

NEW LONDON — The second aldermanic race developed in New London Tuesday when James Collier, 315 State St., drew his nomination papers for Second Ward alderman. He will oppose incumbent Richard Berglung who has also drawn his nomination papers.

Collier is seeking the same post he held for five terms from 1947 to 1957. Berglung defeated Collier in 1957 and has held the position until the present time. Collier also served two and one-half years as a member of the New London Board of Education before the district was unified.

The only other race that has developed is in the city's Fifth Ward where Alfred Hill and George Wochinski are seeking the alderman's seat held by incumbent Lancing McFall who is not seeking reelection.

County Board Votes to Buy Own Hot Mix Asphalt Plant

Move Comes in Wake of Debate Over Proposed $125,000 Outlay

BY DICK LYNES
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County plunged into the hot mix asphalt business Tuesday when supervisors voted to purchase a $125,000 mixing plant. The decision may eliminate, once and for all, private contractors from doing hot mix business with the county and acknowledges majority board sentiment in a long-smoldering dispute over whether some phases of highway construction work can be done more cheaply by public or private operation.

The final vote was 36 to 14 with 12 of the 14 "nay" votes coming from Appleton supervisors.

Two private contractors, Francis J. Bloomer of the John F. Bloomer Construction Co., Appleton, and Larry Gage of the Murphy Construction Co., Black Creek, appeared before the board to argue against the purchase.

The hot mix asphalt plant, plus an asphalt spreader, will cost approximately $125,000. One-fifth of the amount will be paid in 1963 from the highway department's machinery rental fund. The balance will be borrowed from the county insurance fund to complete payment to the successful bidders when the machine is delivered and accepted.

Four Payments

The amount borrowed from the insurance fund will be repaid in four payments between 1964 and 1967 and a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate.

Supv. Eugene Kloes (Appleton 4th) argued it would be unwise to pay for the equipment out of the machinery rental fund. Quoting the 1962 annual report of the highway department, Kloes said, "In 1961 the county spent $383,216 for the total cost of operations, but only had $374,606.15 in revenues. They lost $8,609.85."

"But that's only the beginning," Kloes said. "In their depreciation figures they list $107,147, but page 66 of the report shows they made purchases of $146,491.44. There's a $39,000 difference there. Then as a unit, they have the $8,000, and there is $47,000 they had to dig up some- where to buy the equipment."

Kloes distributed a sheet showing equipment operations of 11 the people do everything they can.

"We don't want government to do everything for us. This is nothing but a step backward."

County Needs It

Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson explained that the county needs hot mix asphalt because the state highway commission says hot mix is far superior to cold mix. He said specifications on federal aid projects give higher specifications requiring hot mix.

"We need hot mix asphalt for maintenance, but to use the plant for maintenance alone would be too expensive. We also need it for road construction, but for construction alone it would be too expensive. But," Brownson stated, "if you put the two together, we can well afford the hot mix plant."

Brownson agreed that the figures quoted by Kloes were correct, but he said, "We had a profit of $14,685 over and above the book value on trade-ins for new equipment. So our $8,000 loss for that year was really a $6,084 profit."

Kloes argued that the actual cash outlays were a loss. "I don't care if you kept your equipment in good shape, it was still a loss."

"When you receive more in trade-in, you upped your inventory value. You actually wrote out checks for $141,000 to buy equipment," he said.

We'd Get Bids

Supv. Ervin Comadt (Town of Bovina), a member of the highway committee, said the department's machinery rental and earnings would "personally pay for the machine. I must say that Mr. Kloes is misleading the board and himself. As soon as we have good roads, the rural people are going to come to Appleton. If Appleton wants to keep the rural people out, that's his Kloes' business. We don't want to be forced to go to Green Bay. Let's think of all of Outagamie County as a unit."

Supv. Philip Retson argued, "My philosophy is to keep government out of private industry's business as much as possible. Let them do everything they can."

Supv. John Dietz (Appleton 13th) said, "This is just another socialistic move. Pretty soon government will have taken all of our freedom away."

Supvs. J. Joseph Cummings (Appleton 3rd) and P. J. Heenan (Appleton 8th) agreed with Dietz. Cummings said, "It is premature to pass this resolution now. I believe in free enterprise and I think private contractors should have a chance to make their proposals."

Heenan said, "I'm not opposed to better roads, but we do have a responsibility to private contractors in our county and we should play the game fair."

Cites Example

Bloomer cited Ozaukee County as an example of a county using its own hot mix plant. "One and a half years ago," he said, "that county started its own program and said it could produce hot mix at $3 a ton, but after a year of operation found out it cost $4.60 a ton. At the same time, private contractors were doing state jobs for under $4 a ton."

"And," he said, "anybody who operates a bituminous hot mix plant will need at least 15 more men. If a county has 15 or 20 men laying around with nothing to do, then they should look into the possibility of starting their own hot mix program."

"This is just another freedom taken away from private enterprise," Bloomer stated, "and yes, I'm prejudiced. You would be too, if government was taking your income away."

Supv. L. A. Grunwaldt (Black Creek) said the county buys crushed stone and gravel from private contractors in the county.

Gage said the Murphy Construction Co. never had a chance to prepare bids on hot mix bituminous asphalt.

Bloomer said that between five and 12 contractors in the area would submit bids for hot mix for highway construction, and at least two, Courtney and Plummer in Neenah, and Murphy Construction Co. in Black Creek, would submit bids for hot mix for maintenance purposes.

Cain Appears Before Court In Own Defense

Appleton Attorney Fighting Attempt To Suspend License

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Allan Cain, Appleton lawyer who served a federal prison term on an income tax evasion conviction, today appeared in person before the Wisconsin Supreme Court to ask for rejection of the motion by the State Board of Bar Commissioners that his license to practice law be suspended for two years.

Cain told the court he is nearly 57 years of age, and that a two-year lapse in his practice will have the effect of destroying it and that he probably will be unable to arrange other employment.

The argument was elaborated by his counsel, Henry P. Hughes, Oshkosh, who said that a two-year suspension would be tantamount to total disbarment and that Cain's prison sentence was sufficient deterrent to other professional men in income tax affairs.

Cain was paroled from Sandstone Federal Prison in Minnesota after serving slightly more than six months of a two-year term. Mrs. Cain also was sentenced to a West Virginia federal prison in the income tax indictment. She acted as his secretary.

Rudolph Regez, Monroe, counsel for the bar commission said the two-year suspension was intended to deter lawyers "from cutting tax corners."

It is the "least period advisable as a deterrent," he said.

Controls Licenses

The state supreme court controls the licenses of lawyers. It has a wide range of disciplinary jurisdiction and can amend or reject the motion of the commissioners, who acted after a court appointed referee heard testimony in the Cain case.

Cain repeated the defense he made in the Federal District Court before he was convicted. He said he was worried about a medical diagnosis indicating a possibly incurable ailment, that he was distracted as a result in the handling of his personal financial affairs, that he had negligently filed returns based on estimates rather than records, that he had asked for a tax audit when one of his deduction claims was routinely questioned by a tax agent, and that now he is sure that he has recovered his health and wants to return to his professional practice.

His home community has not lost confidence in his professional abilities, he said.

The court is expected to make a decision in about a month.

Gov. Reynolds Offers Good Advice

Gov. John Reynolds' advice, presumably to the Republican controlled legislature, that "No man, no matter how partisan his spirit, can put the welfare of his party above the education of the children of this state, the care of the mentally ill, the preservation of its lakes, streams and wildlife, the resurrection of its long-neglected cities, the provision of equal opportunities for all its citizens, the expansion of its industry or the employment of its workers" is something we sincerely hope the new governor rereads quite often. The major answer to the financial problems that plague Wisconsin is a general sales tax with sufficient deductions for essential purchases. But a lot of the members of Gov. Reynolds' party insist that his election was a defeat for that sales tax.

The new governor's series of visits to Wisconsin's welfare and educational institutions certainly opened his eyes as well as those of a lot of citizens to the vast array of needs. We doubt that Gov. Reynolds found many spots where costs could be cut back. He found plenty of places where money could be spent. But the problem is where the money is coming from, not where it is to go.

Cooperation between the governor and the legislature is not a one-sided affair, of course. But it is Gov. Reynolds who has been out on a shaky limb about the means of taxing Wisconsin residents. We sincerely hope that Gov. Reynolds will not turn out to be a man who puts the welfare of his party above that of the people of his state.

A Conference We'd Like to See

Ideological warfare between Soviet Russia and Red China has broken into the open. The Russian Communist party organ Pravda devoted nearly two and one-half pages recently to an editorial demanding that Red China and Albania stop attacking the Kremlin's policy of so-called peaceful coexistence.

This came just a week before leaders of the Communist world are to assemble in East Berlin for the sixth annual congress of the East German Communist Party. Premier Khrushchev will attend and the Chinese delegation is expected to include a number of important figures. It might develop into one of the more spectacular events in the annals of Communism.

The editorial accused Red China of "incredible arrogance." Angrily it inveighed against "the incredible pretension of proclaiming one party the true heir of Lenin."

There is speculation why Khrushchev chose to make the quarrel with Red China public before the world. Possibly he realized he could no longer hide the split and decided to take the offensive. He undoubtedly hopes to make some capital with non-Communist nations.

But the long editorial concluded with what sounded like an appeal for an ideological peace conference. "The Communist parties," it said, "have a tested method of settling contentious issues by way of collective discussion. Our party has always advocated this method."

Here is a proposal which whets the imagination. Imagine the two principal Communist factions sitting down at the conference table to settle an ideological dispute. And this considering that the very essence of Communist teaching is that agreements reached at the bargaining table are only means to an end and not worth the paper they are scribbled on.

Example: the Pravda editorial appeared the same day it was announced that United States talks with Russia over the Cuban situation had been concluded. And the U. S. noted that Khrushchev had backed down on a number of clear-cut commitments he made when President Kennedy issued his ultimatum: no on-the-spot inspection, thousands of Russian forces still in Cuba.

Given freedom of coverage by press and television, such a Russian-Chinese conference could be one of the greatest farces of the ages.

New Lease on Democracy

After what surprisingly turned out to be a quiet and orderly election, marred only by a clash with a fanatical religious group, the Dominican Republic has a new president and a new way of life. But the history of democracy in many Latin American countries is not bright. The next few months will tell whether the Dominicans have really emerged from the long tyranny of Trujillo with any understanding of the responsibilities of self-government.

The new president, apparently quite honestly elected by a 2-1 margin, is Juan Bosch who has been active in left wing but reportedly anti-Communist organizations. He left the Dominican Republic in 1937 and went to Cuba. Batista expelled him in 1958 but he didn't return with Castro. Bosch matter-of-factly says he didn't know that Castro was a Communist. "I felt he was not a democrat. I was afraid of what might happen."

The biggest problem on the surface for President Bosch is the always-important land reform so essential in many Latin American countries. He'll have some United States cash to help of course. But the people of the Dominican Republic have an even larger task ahead of them—showing that they can live in a democracy with the forbearance, hard work and non-violent approach to the solving of problems which it entails. So far they have been doing remarkably well.

Looking Backward

Great Monitor Sinks in Heavy Seas

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 17, 1962.

About 2 o'clock on Monday morning last week (Jan. 5), the State of Georgia (steamer) towed the Passaic from Hampton Roads, Va., followed one or two hours later by the Rhode Island having the Monitor in tow.

The weather was as fine as could be wished, the sun shining bright as a May Day morning, while the water scarcely rippled.

Nothing occurred worth mentioning until Tuesday night, both the ironclads remaining in sight of the other up to 5 p. m. they became separated, the sea becoming rough. The storm increased with a heavy, beating sea, straining the Monitor very much.

From 9 to 10 p. m. the wind was blowing a gale and the Monitor leaked fearfully. The pumps worked well, but the water was found to be gaining. It was now known for certain that she had sprung a leak. The storm was at its height, the waves breaking and passing over the Monitor, burying her completely for an instant, while for a few seconds nothing could be seen of her from the Rhode Island but the upper part of her turret, surrounded by foam.

This was caused as follows — a huge wave would lift her up, then when descending to meet another, instead of riding it like other vessels, she ploughed through the projecting armor at her bow, striking the water with such force that the spray and foam were thrown around her to the distance of 40 feet.

This projecting armor is undoubtedly the cause of the leak, as it (the armor) extended aft 32 feet and forward 14. This constant striking of the water with the force that it did, and the immense weight of ammunition in her hull must have separated the structure, one part from the other, causing a leak from which she filled and sunk.

She was now found to be sinking fast and a consultation was held whether to abandon her or not. Capt. Bankhead decided to save the lives of his men rather than lose both. Signals of distress were ordered to be made to the Rhode Island.

Several of the crew found watery graves by this time, being washed overboard. It was death to stand on deck without having a firm hold and one by one fellows disappeared from the deck and were seen no more. Many had narrow escapes.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock the launch of the Rhode Island was manned and started for the Monitor. About this time the hawser, which now hung loose, became entangled in one of the paddle wheels of the Rhode Island, so that it could not be worked, thus rendering the vessel unmanageable. She drifted toward the Monitor and there was great danger of collision before the hawser was extracted.

The launch was between the two steamers and before she could clear them the whole of one of her sides was crushed in, just clearing the water line. The gallant fellows, undaunted, struck out boldly for the Monitor with their broken boat and safely returned with 15 of the Monitor's crew.

Testimony Cited Opposing Raising Minimum Beer Age

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As a member of the Legislature's Youthful Drinking and Driving Committee, I have listened to testimony on all sides of the beer age question in hearings held throughout 1962. As one of those who does not believe in raising the beer age to 21, I would like to submit for your readers' attention excerpts of such testimony supporting my views.

For instance, Chief of Police Wilbur Emery of Madison, who has under his responsibility the state's largest concentration of youth living away from home, stated at our July 30th hearing that he favored a uniform statewide law setting the minimum beer drinking age at 18 years.

I was equally impressed by the testimony of Msgr. Norbert Dahl, representing the Diocese of LaCrosse, when at a committee hearing in that city on August 24th, he told us "restricting teen age drinking by means of new laws would only chip away at the foundation of parental responsibility."

At our Sheboygan hearing, Sheriff William Swanson, a father of four, came from Green Bay to protest changing the state beer age. He said "our trouble is not with beer bars, but in teens creating their own bars in pastures, along the (Green) Bay, and in summer cottages where they have gone so far as to mix beer with shaving lotion — we can keep better check on our young people when they are in a teen bar."

Judge Robert J. Stoltz of West

Bend addressed our committee at a Waukesha hearing on September 13th and stated "to expect freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors in college not to drink, I believe, is unrealistic."

Dr. John L. Miller, Sociology Professor of the University of Wisconsin, also recommended in a well-documented brief, that Wisconsin's present beer age not be changed.

Marshall B. Clinard, University of Wisconsin professor of Criminology, and a fellow committee member, emphasized "that persons 18 years old could be prosecuted as criminals, which showed that the law recognized them as being responsible for themselves."

Such other authorities on the committee as Judge Eugene Toepel of LaCrosse, Robert Gillette of the Wisconsin Council of Safety, Shannon Apted, Manitowish probations officer, and Harvey Rowe of the State Welfare Department voted to raise the beer age to just 19. In fact, 9 of the 12 committee members who were present for the committee's final action on December 18th voted for the latter proposal.

Because you have probably received much material stressing a 21 year beer law for Wisconsin, I thought it only fair that you give your readers this information on "the other side of the question."

Distinction of Communism, Capitalism Not Whole Story

From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The hardest thing about teaching young Americans what Communism and capitalism stand for may turn out to be why the long-prevailing attitude that it isn't necessary for them to learn it — that they get it by a kind of osmosis that comes of being Americans, is false. That, at any rate, is a possible conclusion from the results of the first year of a six-week course in the subject required by state law for high school seniors in Florida. Only half the Jacksonville students, who took the final test scored a passing grade of more than 70 per cent.

Furthermore, a third of them failed to pick out as false the statement "It is possible to be at the same time a loyal citizen of this country and a true Communist," which was what the State Legislative had been most particular they should learn. The course, says the law, shall lay special emphasis on the false doctrines, evils and dangers in Communism, and ways to fight it.

Some of the seniors had only the most confused notion of what Communists and capitalists are, even after taking the course. One said capitalists are "anti-Communists," another that they are "the haves, and the proletariat the have-nots." As for the other system, a graduate of the course described it by saying that "whenever you have a thesis and antithesis you always have a synthesis which is Communism."

All of which suggests that teaching the nature of Communism is not going to be very successful when it is based on crash courses hastily flung together in response to a demand for propaganda rather than education.

Controversial Figure, Joe Nussbaum, Leaves Madison Scene Quietly

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Almost without notice, one of the men whose name was a synonym for state-house controversy during the last four years has quietly left his powerful state capitol place for a modest desk as a congressional assistant in Washington.

Joe E. Nussbaum, commissioner of the new state department of administration which was one of the favorite targets of the Republicans during and after the 1959 legislature in which Gov. Gaylord Nelson managed to pass the act establishing it, has become an aide of Sen. Nelson at the national capital. Gov. Reynolds will decide soon, it may be presumed, upon a successor for one of the most important of the administrative jobs in government, anywhere in the state.

One of the problems of Nussbaum's comparatively brief public service career is that his agency and its performance were so difficult to assess.

One measure of its success, however, is its gradual acceptance, and the likelihood that the Republicans who were so critical of it a couple of years ago will not move to abolish it in this new legislative term when they have the power to pass whatever repeal bills they choose.

ASSESSMENT

One reason for the department's security, of course, is that it is very hard to unscramble an egg. It would be difficult in the extreme to set up separately again the services and the bureaus and the programs that were consolidated under single management in the administration department.

But another is the gradual acceptance, even by the skeptics, of the logic of a central house-keeping department as a matter of ordinary business prudence. It is hard to make a case for the department as a wasteful bureaucracy when such a careful organization as the Public Expenditures Survey, a professional treasury watchdog organization, consistently advocates such a consolidation of services under central command.

Joe Nussbaum was a controversial figure during his years in the state office not because he was a radical, or a wastrel, or an incompetent. In point of fact he is a frugal man, as office-holders go. Most of the department heads who became acquainted with him and his work grew to admire him.

He became the central figure in state capitol disputation through circumstances over which he had little or no control. In the first instance, his department was originally organized in such a way as to disturb as few as possible of the existing office-holders of rank. The result was that there was set up a new tier of top brass which cost money.

Moreover, the department was one of the few achievements of the Nelson administration in its first term, and the governor, with an eye upon reelection issues, exploited it politically whenever and wherever he could. There was a stream of press releases claiming economies and reforms through its operations which were difficult to document from the record. One reason was that Nussbaum was spending more money in the aggregate, in spite of the claims to economies and efficiency reforms, because he was operating in a period of inflation when all public service costs were rising.

TOUCHY BUREAUCRATS

Another reason why Nussbaum became an ogre, in government and political circles, is because he affronted some of the most powerful of the bureaucratic interests. There was a howl of indignant protest, for example, when he mildly informed the building commission one day of his view that some adjustment in the pattern of higher education service will inevitably be forced by the pressure of exploding enrollments.

State policy should emphasize the gradual development of professional and graduate school services at the University in Madison, he thought, with the undergraduate opportunities gradually decentralized at the state colleges and extension centers for the benefit of the students, their supporting parents, the supporting taxpayers, and the ideal of democratic education. Nobody who follows these matters attentively has any slightest doubt that such a pattern will evolve — or that it is already emerging.

Nussbaum wasn't thinking of the commercial interest of Madison, or about the recruiting of half-backs, and for such negligence he paid in adverse publicity.

Meanings of Words Change to Opposites

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Everyone knows that words change over the centuries, and even over the decades. But what is puzzling, even to specialists in language, is the way in which some words change to mean exactly their opposites.

I thought of this the other morning, when my little girl remarked at breakfast that something was "crummy." A "crummy" hat or a "crummy" game is one to be despised and disregarded; yet it was not always so.

As late as the turn of this century, a British word-book defined "crummy" as "jolly good." "She's a crummy woman" meant a fine handsome woman, well-fleshed and amiable. The crummy part of the bread is the fleshy or main part; it is the opposite of crusty, meaning hard and ill-tempered.

In his fascinating book, published last year, "Your English Words," John Moore observes that a "casualty" was at one time an accident, and now it is used almost exclusively to mean the victim of one. "Painful" once meant taking pains; now it means giving hurt.

"Scan" not too long ago, meant to examine minutely, or to look at searchingly; but the word has now turned topsy-turvy, and when asked "Did you read the document?" we reply, "Well, I only just scanned it."

One of the most interesting changes taking place right before our eyes, as it were, concerns the word "literally." In the past, "literally" meant the opposite of "figuratively"; it meant actually, really, in a factual sense.

But nowadays people say "He was literally burned up about it," when they mean "figuratively" burned up about it, and I have little doubt that a few decades hence, literally will have pushed figuratively out of the dictionary.

A "tobacconist" used to mean smoker, and not the seller of tobacco, as it does today. A "typewriter," when the machine was first invented, meant the typist and not the machine itself. "Portly" used to mean dignified; now it implies a kind of laughable rotundity. "Silly" meant blessed, rather than foolish. And "awful" referred to the majesty of God's works, rather than the modern sense of "frightful" or "ghastly."

Perhaps the most complete reversal of meaning in the English language, however, is the word "maudlin," which now describes a certain sort of self-pitying drunk, liable to burst into tears. The word comes from Mary Magdalene (pronounced "maudlin" in England) who anointed Jesus' feet. It is worth keeping in mind that most words change for the worst over the years, and that a "cunning villain" used to mean merely a peasant of honest skill.

Party Unity Greatest Worry of President

If Democrats Would Vote Together They Could Easily Grant JFK Anything Asked

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three things President Kennedy has to worry about with the new Congress opening today are a conservative, a demolition coalition and an attitude of lassitude.

But his greatest worry is how to get his Democrats to act like a party by voting together in a Congress where — if they did — they are so plentiful they could grant him anything he asked.

They outnumber the Republicans 67 to 33 in the Senate and 288 to 176 in the House. There's one vacancy there.

A conservative preservative is any device—like the House Rules Committee—which conservatives of both parties can use in union to battle up a Kennedy program they don't think is conservative enough.

Wrecking Crew
A demolition coalition is a wrecking crew of Democrats and Republicans working together to dynamite one of his projects after it has somehow escaped from a bottle.

And an attitude of lassitude is the tardiness—to use a nice word—which sometimes overtakes legislators, as it did last year, putting them so far behind in their work they may go home without finishing it.

Kennedy over-dramatized the importance of the Rules Committee, which he made his first concern of the year, when he said he hopes it is kept at its present size because "we can't function... we're through... if it isn't."

This committee, long famous for its concentration of conservatives from both parties, can bottle up a program, if enough of its members choose to, by not letting it up to the floor of the full House for a vote.

This can't work at all if a simple majority of the House members—218 of the 435—have enough interest in a program to want to vote on it. They can, by a vote of 218, force it out of the committee and up to the floor.

So this shouldn't be any prob-

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTIKIT, the alkaline (non-toxic) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not stain. Checks "plate odor breath." Get PASTIKIT at drug counters everywhere.

lem for Kennedy at all—since the Democrats number 288 in the House—and the Rules Committee could be only a minor nuisance if only 218 out of the 435 Democrats saw eyes to eyes with him.

In 1961, under Kennedy's urging, but only on a skin-tight vote, the House enlarged the membership of the committee from 12 to 15. This was supposed to dilute the conservative influence by liberalizing it.

Revert to 12
At today's opening the committee was to revert to 12 unless the full House voted to keep it at 15. Unless it stays at 15, Kennedy says, all is lost.

The committee conservatives are headed by a very conservative chairman, Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va. He and the Kennedy forces have been having some fierce verbal gymnastics.

Smith insists the committee must go back to 12. His opponents protest the figure must be 15. If the truth were known, Smith may have been fighting tongue-in-cheek without caring much whether the figure stays at 15.

It's easy to see why:
1. If the membership goes back to 12—a Kennedy defeat—the committee is apt to be blamed for all kinds of Kennedy setbacks this year, whether Smith and his conservative teammates are responsible or not.

Kennedy could even use it as a whipping boy. He already has by insisting it needs 15 members. He has less room to complain if the membership is 15.

Bottle Up
2. Smith and his friends on the committee probably feel no matter what the size is they can still make their conservative view prevail whenever they want to bottle up what they don't like.

As for demolition squads, no president has solved this one completely in recent history.

For instance:
On a civil rights bill conservative Southern Democrats will, as they have in the past, forget their party label and join conservative Republicans to beat it.

Or, say, on a piece of social legislation they think goes too far, conservatives from both parties from all over will link arms to fight it against a combination of liberals from both parties from all over.

Nor has anybody found a way to keep Congress at a fiery pace until it cleans up all its work. The long-winded Senate, by its very nature, is antipeed.

Kimberly Man Gets Army Award For Suggestion

John G. Wald, 506 Margaret St., Kimberly, bucket dredge operator with the Appleton Project Office of the Chicago Army Engineer District, received a certificate and a cash award of $15 for a suggestion adopted under the Army's incentive awards program.

Presentation of the award was made by Ross R. Plaine, project engineer at the Appleton office, Monday.

Wald proposed that a solid steel pipe be used to replace the center roller on the engineer dredge Winneconne, eliminating the daily need for replacement of the center pipe over the outside of the shaft, as well as intermittent straightening or changing of the shaft itself.

The three roller guides on the dredge are at the tip of the boom. They prevent cables from going between the sheaves. Wald's idea increases the efficiency of the dredge, preventing costly delays in operations and reducing wear on cables.

Supreme Court Orders New Trial In Sales Case

OSHKOSH — The Wisconsin Supreme Court has reversed a ruling by former Circuit Judge Helmut F. Arps in the 1961 suit of the Borg-Warner Corp., Kalamazoo, Mich., versus George Osterstag, former Oshkosh salesman for the company, now living at Waukegan.

The Borg-Warner Corp. had sued Osterstag for what they claimed was a $720 overdraft against his sales commissions from July 1, 1957 to Feb. 1, 1958.

Judge Arps ruled against the firm and ordered them to pay Osterstag an additional $3,378 in commissions, plus $700 interest. Borg-Warner appealed and the supreme court ordered a new trial.

Approximately 200 members of the Northwestern Division of the Paper Industry Management Association will meet at Wisconsin Rapids Thursday.

During the morning the group will tour the Biron Division of Consolidated Papers, Inc. and the Nekoosa mill of the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co., according to Harold Larson of Consolidated, local arrangements chairman.

The conference, which includes paper industry officials from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Upper Michigan, will close with a social hour and dinner at the Elks Club, Wisconsin Rapids. P. W. Budd, Northwest Paper Co., Cloquet, Minn., is chairman of the Northwestern Division of PIMA.

'62 Building in Combined Locks Totals $478,090

COMBINED LOCKS—New construction in the village during 1962 amounted to $478,090 with 71 building permits issued, according to William DeGoey, building inspector.

The total is $34,980 less than 1961 due mainly to three less home permits. The 1962 report shows 31 homes costing a total of $436,000 were built and 15 permits for alterations amounting to $13,000 were issued.

There were 23 new garages costing $21,990 built during the year, one shed costing $440 and one permit for an addition to a service station on County Trunk N, cost of the project set at $8,000.

Is Catholic Ritual Mere POMP AND CEREMONY?

You may have heard it said that the ritual of the Catholic Church is superfluous and unnecessary—even pagan.

Perhaps you believe there is no need for the Mass and other Sacraments, or a priesthood to administer them. If you believe that faith in Christ and the Bible are enough for a full Christian life, you may feel that the recurring year-round cycle of Catholic worship is, at best, just pomp and ceremony.

It is impossible, of course, for anyone outside the Church to realize the marvelous spiritual rewards that flow from personal participation in the Catholic worship that constitutes the Liturgical Year—the Year of the Church. But it may enrich your own understanding and appreciation of the birth and life and death of Jesus Christ, to see how the rites of the Church keep all the events in the life of Our Lord alive in the hearts of men.

We have prepared a special pamphlet entitled "The Year of the Church," which we will be happy to send you free and without obligation upon your request. This, we suggest, is a pamphlet which every Christian can profitably read, not merely to understand the worship of the Church, but to see how Christ Himself inspired the rites which some erroneously have called "inventions" of the priesthood.

You will realize, as perhaps you never have before, how closely the worship of the Church relives the life of Christ from Advent to Pentecost . . . how every prayer, every devotion, every ceremony has its origin and authority in the words of example of Our Lord Himself.

It was Christ's intention, we believe, to establish a Church that would continue His missions to the untold generations still to be born. He wished the sacrifice which He made for the salvation of mankind to be a part of the daily life of the Church. He wanted the faithful of the future to have the means to follow Him from the manger to His resurrection, of which St. Paul said: "If Christ is not risen, then your faith is in vain."

You will be deeply interested, we are sure, in learning how the Liturgical Year began, how it developed, how its forms of worship relate closely and significantly to the Gospels as you understand them. Perhaps you will better understand why the worship of the Church is a way of life for your Catholic friends and neighbors . . . why they are often so profoundly affected by religious devotions which may have seemed superfluous and unnecessary to you.

The shoe box carried the message, "death to this person," and had drawings of a skull and crossbones on the cover. Inside was the doll with an ornamental pin in the stomach. Investigation revealed the culprit was a boy and girl under 16 years of age who had left the box on the porch of a local residence with no malice intended.

The doll was a souvenir picked up by an acquaintance while in New Orleans. Parents and children apologized to the recipient of the doll and the matter was closed.

Fox-Hunting Pilot Scores Farmer's Horses

A rural Appleton farmer told Outagamie police that a fox-hunting airplane pilot took off from his field Sunday afternoon and scared a team of horses which ran through a fence gate, and smashed two posts. One horse was injured.

Police said no charges were brought against the pilot, but Constock said, and the farmer develops a very low ignition temperature.

The farmer told police the pilot landed in a field near his farmhouse Sunday afternoon, for hunting. When the pilot finished his hunt, he headed toward the west for takeoff and flew over the two horses which were standing in a nearby field.

The farmer said the plane flew directly over the horses' heads and the horses became frightened and galloped toward the fence and crashed through the gate.

The farmer's wife said Tuesday her husband had to call a veterinarian for his horse, but he did not know how badly it was injured.

THE AREA I HAD IN MIND!!

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

TELL FRIENDS THE TRUTH... AND LOSE THEM!

RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

If you attack them under the guise of telling them the truth, you may lose them and probably should if they are merely associates who are not really your friends but members of a "mutual admiration society" you may lose about you and if you "speak the truth in love" they will appreciate it. A sharing of honest feelings usually works to cement real friendships, even when it may be painful.

Can dictators make everyone alike?

Yes ☐ No ☐

No. If anything is well established it is that people are different and always remain so. Even in small tribal societies there are marked individual differences. In any large society, these differences become outstanding. Even tight dictatorships, like Communism, can compel only uniformity of what people claim to believe, not actual uniformity. Widespread differences are always present in any supposedly uniform group.

Can the "white collar class" be organized?

Yes ☐ No ☐

Perhaps so, but not easily. In a study of labor unions, one investigator found that most of the engineers were opposed to strikes, grievance procedures and political action. Why? They identified themselves as middle class, and wanted quite a different kind of union than did workers of lower status. As more people come to own stocks and bonds, will their zeal for the kinds of unions we now have diminish?

Lesson in English

Words Often Misused: Do not tell it is that people are different say, "If I was him, I would start and always remain so. Even in right away." Say, "If I were he, small tribal societies there are I should start at once."

Often Misapplied: Gladness is a (stuffy) Gladness (greedy).

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us use, can compel only uniformity increase our vocabulary by making one word each day.

Today's Word: Tonerity; so differences are always present in dignity. "John had the tenacity to ask his guest to leave at once."

Bright Future Seen For Movie Industry

Boats Conclude Better Pictures, Selling Job Needed for Comeback

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD —(AP)—That long-suffering giant, the movie industry, is at last showing signs of stirring from its sickbed.
 No industrial films have been so widely diagnosed. But while the canons are well-known — competition of television and other forms of amusement, flight of production abroad for cost and tax advantages — the cure has been elusive.
 The movie houses have concluded that there will be no dramatic solution to their problems, that they will survive only by better pictures, harder selling and sounder management.
Theaters Increase
 Eric Johnston, the constant optimist, sees a rosy future for the industry which he heads. To support his view, the president of the Motion Picture Producers Association declares that the number of theaters in the world rose from 79,000 in 1947 to 154,900 in 1960.
 Tough minded movie maker Harold J. Minsky ("Some Like It Hot," "The Apartment," "West Side Story") also takes an optimistic view.
 "The rest of the world, as well as the United States, is hungry for entertainment. Our business is going to flourish in the next six months and year."
 Having made 16 films in the past five years, the Minsky brothers have announced they will produce 30 in the next two years — class attractions budgeted for a total of $65-70 millions.
 The most encouraging news for Hollywood came when MCA entered into a consent decree with the Department of Justice, which had sued to prevent merger of the show business giant with Decca Records and its subsidiary, Universal Pictures.
$10 Million Program
 With the announcement that the merger will be permitted, MCA disclosed a $10-million program for modernizing the Universal lot. It already hums with television filming by MCA's Revue, the networks' young supplier, and the features of Universal. The tough,

Thriller Opens Next Week at Swan Theatre

James Whitmore Star Of Popular Suspense Play in Milwaukee

Swan Theatre in Milwaukee has chosen the melodramatic Broadway hit "The Desperate Hours" for its next production.
 James Whitmore stars in the stage play that opens Tuesday and plays through Jan. 27.
 The stage, screen and television star is best known for his role as Abraham Lincoln Jones in the TV series, "The Law and Mr. Jones."
 "Desperate Hours" is a fast-paced thriller about an average American family suddenly cowed under the pistols of three desperate, escaped convicts. Based on a true story that happened in 1952, the tale was published first as a magazine serial, then became a best-selling book club selection. After that it was turned into a play that ran successfully on Broadway for over six months and finally was adapted in a movie version that starred Humphrey Bogart and Fredric March.
 Whitmore portrays the embattled head of the Hilliard family and Evelyn King his steadfast wife. Judy Boyle and John Dearing will be seen as younger members of the family.
 The criminals are Karl Redcoff, the ruthless leader of the trio, Bob Jones and Mickey Morton.
 Ray Boyle is directing the Swan production. The play was written by Joseph Hayes.

CBS Reports Photographs Indian War

BY TV REPORT

6:55-7:10 (Channel 11) — CBS Reports visits the Indian border in "The War At the Top of the World." Producer David Lowe spent seven weeks in India, Pakistan, Sikkim and Bhutan in November and December. He focused on the India - China fighting, the India - Pakistan dispute and other squabbles involving Nepal and the Kashmir. Lowe interviews most of the major figures in India, Pakistan and Sikkim. No actual fighting is seen, but Lowe says he got lucky and you'll see some impressive shots of refugees coming down from the mountains and an exciting scene of an Indian Air Force helicopter rescuing soldiers who had been struggling back from the front. Lowe attempts no conclusions in this, but tries to give a picture of the terrain, the implications of the fighting and what a mess the situation is.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 11) — Going My Way lets Dick York, as social worker Tom Colwell, take the spotlight tonight. Despite his education and profession, he falls prey to a problem of his own — he's ashamed of his father. Ed Begley plays the father, whose only fault is that he's given to loudness and bad jokes.

8:30 (Channel 4-5) — Two talented guests, Jane Powell and Peter Ustinov, drop in on The Perry Como Show. In a particularly bright melody they join Como and company in familiar opera arias spiced with new lyrics. The Genaro dancers have a sparkling version of "Ballin' the Jack" (Color).

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — Jealousy is the theme for the comedy on The Dick Van Dyke Show tonight. Joan O'Brien drops in playing an old friend of Dick who wants to be a singer. He helps her and Mary Tyler Moore (as Dick's wife) gets the wrong idea.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Naked City can't seem to tell a story without getting bogged down in psychology. Eddie Albert stars, as a liquor dealer whose teen-aged sons have adopted a sort of existentialist philosophy. To shock them into an appreciation of life, Albert uses a rash of liquor store holdups as a device to give him a chance to play hero.

9-10 (Channel 2) — The Steel Hour, in "The Young Avengers," uses a small arena to illustrate a large theme. Ken Dullea plays a disillusioned lawyer visiting his old professor (Cameron Prud'homme) to consider whether he'll continue in his profession. A small boy (Alan Howard) accuses a man of killing the boy's dog, and Prud'homme suggests that Dullea find out what happened to the animal.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — The Eleventh Hour presents a frightful picture of a domineering mother. Beatrice Straight is fine as the mother, whose complete possession of her son — breaking his marriage, buying him friends — has driven him (Scott Marlowe) into a mental hospital.

10:30-12 (Channel 4-5) Among Tonight's guests are Glenda Leigh, Enrico and Don Cornell. (Color)

Educator Finds Handicaps Can be Overcome if Person Makes Effort

BY LEELEE J. MASON, Ed. D.
 Professor of Education,
 University of Southern California

You feel awkward and handicapped because you are left-handed?

Most people have one or more areas in which they feel inept. But these seeming handicaps can be overcome when a person is willing to expend the effort.

Recently, I received a letter from Mrs. G. S. of Santa Ana, Calif., which clearly describes the problem and solution. She wrote:

"Bright students are sometimes unconsciously handicapped by the ease with which their knowledge accumulates. They may literally never have had to try to develop a particular skill."

"A bright son, now a National Merit scholar, found band music difficult because he did not already know each piece. He received 'C' in typing (he never practiced at home). In his senior high school year we persuaded him to take drafting. He was most reluctant. He insisted he was 'uncoordinated." He referred to his sloppy, left-handed penmanship as dooming him to failure.

"However, he attempted the course. We felt that his mathematical ability would give him a little extra edge in his actual drawing, which proved to be the case. Seen he was second in his class. He could not beat the best boy in examinations, but he could make as many extra-credit drawings as possible."

"He took minutes salvaged from a heavy sports program and graduated with an 'A' in this course. The satisfaction gained from this success was a greater incentive than all the 'A's' and awards which had previously been his with so little effort. I think the experience was invaluable in his character development."

This lad's typing, handwriting, and feeling of uncoordination also can be overcome if he makes school year we persuaded him to take drafting. He was most reluctant. He insisted he was 'uncohas discovered that some things can be achieved only through struggle.

Here is a letter from Ted of Long Beach, Calif., to illustrate my point. He writes:

"I am left-handed. My last grades have always been lower than grades on work done at my desk at home. After reading one of your discussions of handwriting I studied my manner of taking tests."

"I found that I wrote in a very awkward position, since I used my left hand on the table-arm arranged for right-handed students. My arm and elbow were always in mid-air."

"With the permission of the teacher I have since either worked at a table or moved a second chair into position beside me. My grades on exams have improved markedly."

"Please pass this information on to other left-handed students." Thank you for the hint. Right-handed students could well follow your example of analyzing the situations in which their work is not proving satisfactory.

Another tip may help Left-handed students should grasp the pen or pencil at least an inch from the writing end. This allows them to see what they are writing without assuming a cramped position.

Rare Complaint Made By Arizona Farmer

TUSCON, Ariz. (AP)—A man walked into the Pima County assessor's office in Tucson and said he had a complaint.
 A weary clerk braced himself and asked, "What's the trouble?"
 The man answered, "I been paying taxes on 37 acres of land. Just had a survey made. I really own 40 acres. I wish you would correct your figures so I can pay my fair share."
